The trial of col. Wm. G Taylor, for counterfeiting bills of the United State's bank, which is proceeding in the U S. District court, excites no small share of attention. The evidence for the prosecution was not closed when the court adjourned last evening.

The politics of the South are not sufficiently understood reflecting politicians, but which, in the struggles for office, and the melèe of personal conflict, seems to have been entirely overlooked.

While we ridicule the wild theory of nullification; we should not lose sight of the fact, that the leading politicians of the entire South are no less opposed, upon principle, to the existing tariff, than the advocates of nullification. The remedy which they propose is not less alarming in its consequences than that of their decided opponents—it is a Southern convention, a withdrawal from the Union, and a sepa-South Carolina, and a leading politician of what is called the Union party in that state. The following extract affords a tolerably fair exposition of his views: "A crisis has arrived in federal pointies, pregnant with the fate of our republic. "The history of our wrongs is too familiar to you be require a recitar of them at present. Soffice it to say, that the protection the manufacturers solicited from us as a book in 1816, they now demand as a right. By an artful combinations of various interests and political partisans, and by bribing various sections of the country with largesses for internal interovements, they have norshalled a majority in congress that enables them to sec all constitutional restraint, and all sense of justice at definice—and to riot in the sports of the South with the rapacity of a wort in a sheepfold." What measure bids fairest to be most effectual, and least in zardous to our own safety and the integrity of

Some of the nullifiers of the state of S. Carolina, instst on immediate nullification and resi tance by that state stone. My insuperable objections to this course, while South Carolina remains in the Union, are known to you and I need not trouble you with them here. You know I regard "nullification" as just so much worse than revolution, as the penalties and stain of treason are calculated to make it. But I should answer without hesitation to the questions propose ded, that the remedy I suggested to the Union and State Right party of Charleston, in the course of last summer, and which I have held forth as our dernier resort, ever since 1828, is the proper plan for us to pursue.

"The synop is of that plan is all that S uthern states flaving the same common interest with South Carolins, should quase common cause with her. That Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, M. ssissippi, and as many of our adjacent sister states as choose to join us, should each sate states as choose to join us, should each sate states as choose to join us, should each sate states as choose to join us, should each sate should send a number of Columbia. That each states should send a number of delegates proportionate to her representation in congress; say two delegates from each congressional district, and that those delegates should be instructed by the people to addits a strong and spicied, but respectful representatives of the people only, and for the employment of Poles alone in all legal offices, and ships Olders and Opollo and sehr——; brought up ship Charles from Phitadelphia, brip Asthentic, trom Boston, brig Criterion from Portsmouth; sehr Enterprize, from Harvey as a prince whose dreadful and a reconstructed all these rights in the most arbitrary mannaer. The most respectable persons of Warsaw were sent prisoners to fortresses, and even condemned to cleanse the atreets for imputed offences, without trial. The taxes were phia.

Ship Charles, Wharton, Yorke, from Philadelphia, to should make common cause with her. That Virginia, it respectfulre. monstrance to congress against any other than a revenue tariff, presenting to that body, in the same instrument, the atternative of giving up the American system, returming to an honest constitutional course of legislation, distributing equal burthens and equal benefits, -or that we will separate from the confederacy, "pracrably if we can, foreibly if we must."

. Responsive to these views, we notice in the Charleston City Gazette, a journal uniformly espousing the cause of the Unionists, the proceedings of a highly respectable meeting, in Sumpter district, which appear to be marked equally by moderation, firmness and ability. An admirable address to the people was submitted by the hon. John S. Richardson, which affords an index to the ulterior viers of that party, and through it a great portion of the South. The follow ing if the conclusion of this document:

But we have great grounds to apprehend, that the power of an interested majority may continue to prevail over right, policy and produce. Let us then deal frankly, fearlessly, and rationally, with congress: while they are still in session, and leave them no excuse from ignorance of our final course. Candour, the completion of our present politics, and the reasonable requisitions of the people, all demand, that in the event of the federal government failing now when there is no longer any excuse for further delay, to adopt a wholand substantial reduction of the import duties; and a constitutional madification of the principle of taxation; we will recommend to the legislature of South Caralina, at its next assion, to profess to, and the course which shall be adopted by the majority in order to relieve the planting and connecreial states, from a partial oppressive all anjust tariff of protecting and prohibitory duties. We would leave all details to our legislature, and confide in their wisdom, patriotism and firmness. We believe, that its such a convention of the Southern and other state, who may concur in the measure proposed justice field bactone, the constitution protected, and past preserved.—We leave the responsibility of rejecting his proposition, to those, if any there should be, the may oppose a means so simple and intelligible, so reposition and considerate, and herefore so well tried in the United States, upon great occasions. We cannot admit, that there will be and several received afterer or slight wounds.

The fundamental opposition is proposition. The fundamental proposition is proposition. The fundamental proposition is proposition. The fundamental proposition is proposition to those, and herefore so well tried in the United States, upon great occasions. We cannot admit, that there will be and several received afterer or slight wounds.

The fundamental opposition is protected, and past in the fundamental proposition in the subtract of the soldiers, and several of them hit the soldiers, and the top it is relieved in the fine and that then four magistrates require the proposition of the soldiers, and that then four magistrates require the proposition of the troops to give order to fire. There is no proposition and considerate, and herefore so well tried in the United States, upon great occasions. We cannot admit, that there will be and several received afterer or slight wounds.

The fundamental cannot denote the mass the successful candidate, the friends of the flower returned; that the partial mass the successful and the fire form was on his way to his residence in the sulkies and dealbon wagons, all of which he will sell of the solders, the fire solders in the subtraction of the solders. The fundamental proposition of the sol ed; or otherwise, the authorization of the tariff law, by a single state.—This last proposition we will not denounce. We propose to conciliate every virtuous man, and not offend the feeling of our equals. But we are clear, and certain, that, if after three years of full and the concentration of the proposition, there were their dischargement of the proposition of the prop persuasive recommendation of the proposition, there ed, not being able to agree upon a verdict.—Nine we dispused to render a verdict of death by the military and the respectable party out of South Carolina, who have in any way, acquiesced in Mr. Calloun's version of the Virginian doctrines of '98 and '99:—Then, we must say with all the other states, that, that particular version is, at least, impracticable, or mistaken, or cannot be understood by the people at large. And therefore cannot be fit for our adoption. We cannot but be confident too, 'that our particular brethren, in immediate opposition to us, will not expect us, to acquiesce, in what we deem wrong; and when we can quiesce, in what we deem wrong; and when we can learn of no respectable party of men, other than them we must say with all the other states, that, that partiselves, in any one of the states, who do not controvert the truth constitutionally, or safety of the mullification of a federal tax set, by a single state. Such a proceeding them, even were it right in some instances, must, therefore, be still, of necessity abandoned, in the particular cases before us.—And we say, once more to then smite with us: That once united in a construction of the immense emigrations to the British more to then smite with us: That once united in a construction of the immense emigrations to the British more to then smite with us: That once united in a construction of the immense emigrations to the British more to then smite with us: That once united in a construction of the immense emigration of th

BALTIMORE. June 7. In a late debate le the House of Commons, Mr. C. Ferguson referred to the state of Poland. It appears that, if the emperor of Russia is entitled on the principles of the state of Poland. Ship Tallahasse, Glover, Liverpool, Ship Calumet. Osgood, Liverpool, ple of non-intervention, to do what he pleases with his Ship Calumet, Osgood, Liverpoo own Maves, he is in this case restricted by the express Ship Morea, Girdler, Liverpoof, Conditions of treaties. He received the Duchy of Brig Agenora, Collins, Charleston, Warsaw, by the treaty of Vienna, as an independent Brig progress, Howes, Boston, kingdom, and the constitution provided for liberty of person, for the liberty of the press, for the levying of taxes by the representatives of the people only, and for the property of t never voted by the Dict, and the liberty of the press-was not allowed to exist for a day. The insurrection of the Poles was fully justifiable; and, even if not, its suppression did not involve the freedom and rights of our millions of Poles. The European question reman ed-whether Russia should be compelled to ad- to Copeman. e.e to the faith of treaties. Her obligation to do .so he had recognized to the present Frence Government, which, it was evident from what had fallen out, she had thus deceived. Other members expressed similar sentiments, and some recommended an address to h Majesty, orging the united representations of the parties to the treaty to the Russian Court on this violation of it. We have heretofore mentioned the reply of the ministry on this point.

The abrupt termination of the Turkish war. when the Russian troops were almost at the gates of Constantmople, was an unexpected issue, of which the easons could only be gussed. It the speech just quot ed, Mr. Ferguson remarked, that "it was well known

BALTIMORE, June 7. Captain Colly, of the sebooner Rambler, arrived at this posion Tuesday from Gusyana, Perto Rico, in forms us that a short time prior to his setting a clipping schooner, with about sixty men; had been fitted out as a pirate, at a small port on the south side of the Island of Porto Rico, between Mayaguc2 and t'abo Roxo. The schooner spiled on a craise several days before the Rambler. She was commanded by the son of a notorious pirate, whose name Captain Colly does In the other parts of the South are not sufficiently understood in the other parts of the Union.
