Specifications for the Wikimedia Cascadia flag/logo

Size:

The flag has a ratio of 3:5; each stripe takes up 1/3rd of the width (top to bottom) and extends the entire length (left to right) of the flag. The Douglas fir, on a 3x5 sized flag, takes up 2.9 of the width (96.67%) and 1.48 (29.6%) of the length. The Douglas fir is modeled from the Oregon license plate.

Colors:

The following colors are in the Pantone Matching System and were chosen from the various flags that represent the Cascadia region. Stripes, top to bottom, are Pantone 288 C (British Columbia), Process White and 348 C (Washington). The Douglas fir is Pantone 2768 C (Oregon).

Public Domain Declaration:

The creator of the flag, Zachary Harden (WMF, NAVA, ATΩ), hereby declares this flag and this documentation to be in the public domain in the United States and other jurisdictions. If this is not legally possible, the creator hereby renounces all copyright claim to this work and will not seek any restrictions for use on this work.