☞ The barque Hercules, arrived this morning from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 19th of August. We have been favored by a respectable merchant of this city with papers to the 16th, from which we have made the following extracts:

FRANCE.

ACCESSION TO THE THRONE OF HIS MAJESTY PHILIP 1st.

From the Messager des Chambres, August 9.

On Saturday evening, the Duke of Orleans, surrounded by his family, received a deputation from the Chamber of Deputies, headed by M. Lafitte, who read the declaration calling his Royal highness to the throne, on the conditions proposed. The Prince replied in the following terms:—"I receive with profound emotion the declaration which you present to me. I regard it as the expression of the national will; and it appears to me conformable to the political principles which I have all my life professed. Filled with recollections which have always made me desire that my destiny should never place me on a throne; free from ambition, and accustomed to the peaceful life I lead with my family, I cannot conceal from you the sentiments which agitate my heart at this great conjuncture; but there is one which predominates over all,—it is the love of my country; I feel what that prescribes to me, and I will do it.

On concluding this speech, which he uttered with the deepest emotion, the Prince embraced M. Lafitte, and cries of Vive le Roi! Vive la Reine! Vive la famille Royale! burst forth on all sides. The shouts without replied to these manifestations on the public joy, and the Prince then went into the balcony, accompanied by M. Lafayette. All this moment enthusiasm was at its height. M. Lafayette took the hand of the Prince, and said to him—"We have done well: you are the prince we want; this is the best of republics." After dinner an immense crowd filled the court of the Palais Royal, and asked to see the new King. The Prince appeared for a few minutes in the balcony, surrounded by his family, and was received with demonstrations of the most lively joy.

A deputation from the Chamber of Peers also waited upon his Royal Highness, and their President, Mr. Pasquier, read the following address:—"The Chamber of Peers come to present to your Royal Highness the act which will determine our destinies. You have formerly defended, sword in-hand, our liberties, when new and untried; to-day you are about to consecrate them by institutions and laws. Your elevated reason, your inclinations, the recollections of your whole life, promise us a citizen King (un Roi citoyen.) You will respect, you will love our rights, which are also your own. This noble family whom we see around you, educated in the love of their country, of justice and truth, assures to our children the undisturbed enjoyment of that charter which you are about to swear to, and the benefit of our government at once stable and free."

His Royal Highness replied in this terms:—Messieurs, in presenting this declaration to me, you evince a confidence which deeply touches me. Attached by conviction to constitutional privileges, I desire nothing so much as a good understanding between the two chambers. I thank you for giving me a right to believe that it will exist. You impose a great task on me, of which I shall endeavour to prove myself worthy."

The Mcenager des Chambres of Tuesday gives an account of the preparations made to receive the Duke of Orleans, preparatory to his accession to the throne, in the Chamber of Deputies, on Monday the 9th instant. The Chamber was crowded from an early hour in the morning, and, at about half-past two the Duke of Orleans made his entrance. The declaration of the two Chambers having been handed to him, and read by their respective Presidents,

The Prince Lieutenant-General then said, in a strong and sonorous voice, "Messieurs Peers and Deputies, I have read with great attention, the declaration of the Chamber of Deputies, and the adherence of the Chamber of Peers. I have weighed and meditated all the expressions of them.

"I accept, without restriction or reserve, all the clauses and engagements which this declaration contains, and the title of King, of the French, which it confers upon me. I am ready to swear to the observance of them."

Scarcely were these words pronounced when cries of Vive le Roi—Vive Philippe I resounded through the hall. The King bowed, and (raising his hand towards heaven) pronounced the following oath:

"In the presence of God I swear faithfully to observe the Constitutional Charter, with the changes and modifications expressed in the declaration of the Chambers of Deputies; to govern only by the laws, and according to the laws; to cause good and strict justice to be done to every body according to his right; and to act in all things solely with a view to promote the happiness and the glory of the French people."

Cries of "Vive le Roi!" "Vive Philip I!" "Vive la Reine!" "Vive la famille Royale!" and the most enthusiastic acclamations followed this. The King signed the declaration, the act of adherence, and the oath, then seated himself on the throne and delivered the following speech:

"Messrs. Peers and Deputies,

"I have deeply reflected on the extent of the duties which are imposed upon me. I have the consciousness of being able to fulfil them, causing the compact of alliance which has been proposed to me to be observed.

"I should have ardently desired never to ascend the throne to which the national will calls me; but I yield to this will, expressed by the Chambers in the name of the French people, for the maintenance of the charter and the laws.

"The modifications which we have just made in the charter guarantee the security of the future and the prosperity of France—happy at home, respected abroad, at peace with Europe, it will be more and more consolidated."

Fresh acclamations rose in the Hall, and did not cease till long after the departure of the King and his august family. Mr. Dupont de l'Eure, commissioner for the department of Justice, said "The King invites the members of the two Chambers to meet to-morrow, in their respective places, to swear to the charter, and to continue their labours." The deputies then adjourned to the following day.

LONDON, august 10.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Admiral Duperré, Commander-in-Chief of the squadron at Algiers, writes, under the date of 25th of July, that he has placed under the command of Admiral Rosamel a division of the squadron, which, after taking possession of Bona, and placing a French garrison in that place, was to proceed to Tripoli.

Peyronnet and Chantelauze have been arrested at Tours, with five other individuals, one of whom is supposed to be Prince Polignac.

Extract of a letter from Havre, dated Aug. 7. —Two beautiful American vessels sailed from this port yesterday for Cherbourg, at which place the ex-King and his suite are to embark, but no one knows to what country they will direct their course. Some say that they will proceeds to England. It is now anticipated that much temporary commercial embarrassment will be the result of the Revolution. In Bordeaux five large concerns have already failed, and we know that in Paris many must soon follow. One mercantile house has already stopped payment in Havre.

French Army in Algiers.—A private letter from Algiers gives some details of the proceedings consequent at Algiers upon the arrival of the news of the late events in France. The troops immediately proclaimed themselves in favour of liberty and the charter, crying, "Down with the Bourbons," "Down with despotism." A few of the old Soldiers exclaimed, "Long live the Emperor Napoleon the Second." General Bournont addressed the troops, requesting them for the sake of themselves and their country, to show no popular feeling, as the inhabitants might take advantage of such a demonstration. Bournont was soon expected to quit Algiers.

BE WARE OF COUNTERFEITS!

WHEREAS I have lately understood that a certain individual is now preparing and now vending throughout the United States, an imitation of my celebrated Catholicon, purporting to possess the same virtues, and as it is presumed it will be for sale in the city of New Orleans, the public are particularly cautioned against purchasing it. It is supposed to be similar to the Rob of L'Affecteur, or Syron de Cousnier, which contains corrosive sublimate, and calculated to do much mischief. I trust the unsuspecting will be on their guard against these frauds, and purchase of no other persons but F. P. DUCONGE and MORGAN & Co. who are my only authorized agents for New Orleans, and from whom the Genuine Potter's Catholicon can be had fresh from my factory at Philadelphia.

POTTER'S CELEBRATED

CATHOLICON,

Only $2 per Bottle.

☞ The component parts of this medicine are purely Vegetable—it is therefore one of the safest in the world!

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY

In diseases of the Liver, Ulcerated sore Throat, Debility resulting from Intemperance and Dissipation, Scrofula and King's Evil, old and inveterate Ulcers, pains in the Bones, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, or indigestion, diseases of the Lungs, Syphilis, blotches on the Face and Skin, white swelling of the Joints, Tetter, Mercurial diseases, Piles, &c.

The certificates of wonderful cures performed by the Catholicon, have become so numerous as to preclude their insertion in any news-paper.—The unrivalled and very extensive curative which it has enjoyed, for the last six years, as a complete renovator, and purifier of the blood and humors, both in Hospitals and in private practice, is a substantial basis for its future support. It has obtained its present great distinction by the extraordinary success which has attended it in the healing art, while every avenue and track have been searched in vain for its parallel; its discovery is one of the most sacred boons that can be afforded to the unfortunate martyr of disease, and it is most sincerely hoped that the sympathy of the public will be aroused, to the promulgation of its inestimable merits. Proofs of the value of Potter's genuine Catholicon:—its healing powers: its usefulness as a general restorer of health: the city of Philadelphia alone would furnish thousands of witnesses, to contradict the base and malicious fabrications which daily emanate from the jealous.

What, we would ask, can be a stronger proof of its utility, than its success in the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia Alms House, and the Philadelphia and New York Penitentiaries, and in other public institutions alike serviceable, where the eminent skill which presides over them had been exhausted in vain. "These facts speak trumpet tongued"—and cannot be gainsaid. It is much to be lamented that there are so many spurious mixtures manufactured in imitation of this invaluable medecine, some assuming to possess equal virtue, and vended under the same titles—future have gone to the daring extremity of refilling the old bottles with the labels on; whilst others, to filch the public, have published for their benefit the very certificates which the proprietor of the Genuine Catholicon had obtained from those who were cured by his medicine, of various distressing diseases.

Thus has he been assailed in every form by Envy, Jealousy and Fraud, and thereby prevented extending the advantages of this great and long [illegible] remedy.

Sept. 21 L. DAUNOY, marshal.

JUST received a new supply of the Remedy prepared by the late celebrated physician Dr. Francis Bertoly. This well known medicine in syphilitic cases has been used in the U. States for upwards of 30 years with the greatest success; and though mercury enters into its composition, yet its remarkable properties consist in this fact: If prescribed in any quantities, and frequently repeated, it never affects the mouth in the remotest degree, there is, therefore, no salivation, no fetor of the breath, no destruction of the teeth, nor any of that long catalogue of disgusting effects so universally attending the use of mercury in its natural form as is usually prescribed; this is a circumstance not to be overlooked. This medicine is accompanied by a small pamphlet, called "The Art of Curing One's Self," plainly pointing out its application, which may be performed without the aid of a second person; in common cases one bottle effects a cure.
