J. M. KERNEDY.

No less then three duels have occurred in this city, within the space of a week, without any great harm resulting. La addition to these, there was a very handsome affair, a la Mendoza, between two young Ethiopida, in Chartres atreet, yesterday morning, which amused hundreds of our citizens. We are unable to state whether these doings are countenanced at Washington, or not; but can assure those politicians who are disgusted with the state of society there,

The bank question was under discussion in the national senate; and the tariff, in the house of representatives, at the latest dates from Washington.

The Mobile Commercial Register states that Moseley Baker, who, it will be remembered, was arrested in this city and taken to Tusculoosa, charged with having committed traud and forgery upon the State Bank of Alabama, has brothough I had Very's or Beauvillier's bill of fire to choose ken jail and expeted his escape.

In his speech in the British house of lords, on the second reading of the reform bill, lord Grey confesses his reluctance to the creation of a batch of new peers, but at the same time avows his determination not to shun such a measure, should it become necessary. This avowal is evidently extorted from him by the exigencies of his situation, and is an incident in the progress of reterm, for which he was not originally prepared. He evidently dreads its effect upon his own "order;" but it has been pressed upon him by the current of events, which he is unable, even had he the disposition, to resist.

While he avows his intention to carry his measure of reform in this manner, lord Grey defends himself in the house they must approve if they have a spark of humanity. of lords from the change of revolution a y intentions, by afsacming the views of his administration to be "that something being to be done in the way of reform, it should be done to that extent as to give a resting place on which the constitution could repose in future, free from all further discussion and agitation.
