

THE BEE.

PUBLISHED DAILY, BY JEROME DAVY,
CHARLES P. HARRIS,
T. S. WILSON—MAYBE PRESIDENT.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 20, 1834.

Democrat John Ripley, the representative elect to Congress from the second district, was most reluctantly induced to give his individual assent to the transaction. As the transaction is likely to become the subject of judicial investigation, he forswore full disclosure and comments.

We are sorry to understand that hopes are entertained by the supporters of Mr. Clay, the amount whose fortunes would be increased so greatly a sensation of pain among our citizens. It is believed that opposition may be vigorous.

Subscription papers are in circulation, and we need no stimulate the philanthropic and humane to contribute their mite to this melancholy occasion.

The following columns our readers will find the report presented by Dr. McAlpin, the chairman of the committee to whom was referred the subject of purchasing five hundred shares of capital stock in the Gas Light Company, together with the Mayor's vote thereon.

Impressing this able and conclusive document, we recur with pleasure to our prediction that in concluding the interview with the friend to this great man, we were placing the bodies of half a dozen in the hands of one who would spare no pains to restore her general welfare and prosperity. Should the speedy illumination of our city with gas, prove to supersede the present import of lighting, it may be considered as mainly attributable to Dr. McAlpin's persevering exertions.

The following voluntary oaths at the democratic fest, were drawn in this list of yesterday:

By S. W. O'Keeley—Let us of the press, of our watch and of magistrate be chid, when we see the violence and severity of the hand of state.

Our Country. Success and prosperity will attend us with the democratic republican phalanx supporting us.

By Samuel Kennedy, Major General Andrew Jackson, President of the United States.—May he in his last look at his country's fallen, stand a striper.

Mr. Blanchard is a singularly witty fellow (I could not find a more appropriate epithet) of the most enterprising and powerful intellect for a general reader—excited by the wild fancies evoked by the "neuroticism" of our civilization; and we value this opportunity of assuring the friends of our external firm adjoining them in that city, that very few if any of their publications are distributed to the members of the press. We believe they generally send distribution copies to editors through their agents in different cities—but the New Orleans exception.

The paper is published by Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia, addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

The External firm (Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia) addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

The External firm (Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia) addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

The External firm (Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia) addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

The External firm (Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia) addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

The External firm (Carey, Lea & Blanchard of Philadelphia) addressed them in their office, and I am informed would be sent to the New Orleans office, Mr. Montague, Post Office, for whom we have had a copy; and so with all their publications. They are aware of this—and that their works are sold in if ever noticed here but in occasional advertisements.

THEatre.—COLLEY CIBBER.

[Reported for the Bee.]

MUNICIPAL PROCEEDINGS.

Members present, the Recorder, Aldermen McCready, Brown, Calvert, Merle, Montague, McFarlane and Hyde. The prescriptive verbal of the last meeting, together with the following letter from the Mayor:

New Orleans, Dec 20th 1834.

The Best Market Farm was sold to Mr. J. Vieux for the sum of $25,000.

The Vegetable Market farm was sold to Mr. L. Nodda for $15,000.

The store No. 1 was adjudged for one hundred dollars per month to Mr. Alcibiades, who also purchased the store No. 2 at the rate of $2 per month.

The recorder will inform you of the names of the enterprisers of the purchases, who have bought the farms above mentioned; and after having had your decision thereon, I shall occupy myself with having the acts made which will complete the sales.

According to your direction, I have published advertisements, and notified the public that the auctioneer for the city will offer public sale on the 21st inst., a certain number of lots belonging to the city. It is necessary that I should know in advance the minimum which it is your intention to fix for the sale of these lots, and I pray you to let me know your decision upon this point.

The Best Market Farm was sold to Mr. J. Vieux for the sum of $25,000.

The Vegetable Market farm was sold to Mr. L. Nodda for $15,000.

The store No. 1 was adjudged for one hundred dollars per month to Mr. Alcibiades, who also purchased the store No. 2 at the rate of $2 per month.

The recorder will inform you of the names of the enterprisers of the purchases, who have bought the farms above mentioned; and after having had your decision thereon, I shall occupy myself with having the acts made which will complete the sales.

Mr. Cudwell called the number to order, and observed, to his great distress, that he was fatigued with hearing a discourse which had no relation to the question.

Mr. Mercer said that the honorable gentleman was fatigued, nothing prevented him from retiring.

The Recorder begged Mr. Mercer to keep within the limits of the question.

Mr. Mercer, in continuation of his remarks, said that his object was to show the council the absurdity of Mr. Alcibiades's plan, and moreover that his manuscript was filled with contradictions; that that he was at a considerable loss to understand what he had written, and that he could not make out what he had written.

He said that the first paragraph was composed of facts, he thought that according to the particular information he had, he presided over an assembly, that had the right to nominate the committees, and that if the committee had presented a report accompanied by resolutions, it would not be until after the assembly had "convened," that the mayor could put his signature to the resolution of the assembly.

He then said that he had written to the recorder,

that he