

THE UNION

EDWARD AND PUBLISHED DAILY BY JEROME BAYON,
CRATE & CO.

THE UNION—17 MONTHS PRESENT.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 11, 1834.

For auction, and other advertisements, see column will refer to our Supplement of today.

By a general omission the name of Capt. William H.
Chase, was left out from the list of vice-presidents published in the account we gave of the festival on the 23d. That gentleman officiated upon the occasion much to the surprise of his democratic fellow citizens of this city.

We are compelled to postpone a further account of the celebration of the 23d, to our No. of Monday next.

We call the attention of the public to Mr. Elliott's advertisement announcing a grand excursion upon Sunday next, from the wharves of the government houses, Canal street.—
Mr. Elliott is an ardent abolitionist and deserves encouragement.
His last speech, we understand, was made by him at a considerable loss. Our citizens we doubt not will be pleased to make up upon this occasion the former deficiency.

The democratic festivities in honor of the great triumph of republican principles, were closed the evening before last (Christmas night), by a ball, the proceeds of which were very handsomely appropriated to the Male Orphan Boys' Asylum. Much praise cannot be accorded Moses' Wixom and High for their disinterested exertions, and while we are doing justice to those gentlemen, we do not forget Moses' White, Beard, and Howe of the American Theatre, who are also entitled to much praise. The latter gentleman very kindly permitted a portion of the musicians of the theatre to officiate upon the occasion. The treasurer acknowledged in the following handsome terms, the receipt of the donation:

"The treasurer of the asylum, for the relief of destitute orphan boys, gratefully acknowledges the receipt of $45,30, which proceeds received by the president of the institute, arising from the illumination of the Arcades on Christmas night. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the gentlemen who so generously proffered their services on this laudable occasion; gratifying to the visitors, who had entered one of the finest Arcades in the United States splendidly illuminated with gas. The directors, as well as the proprietors of this asylum, will ever appreciate the unbounded friendship evinced in their behalf by a community whose benevolence it is to be accounted in act of charity."

The National Guard, and the most prompt and respectable of the opposition press, have taken decided ground with the president in his views of our relations with France. In commenting upon the allegation that the message is calculated to provoke a war, that paper justly remarks:

"The policy of Louis Philippe is essentially pacific; he could gain nothing, and might lose his crown, by war with the United States. So far from availing himself of the name of the president's message to exasperate the French against the American people, he is more likely to welcome that name as a stimulus to the chamber, to do its duty by voting the creation of the treasury."

The London Morning Herald of a late date says: "The financial agency of the U. S. Bank will be entirely undertaken by Messrs. N. M. Rothschild & Co. and after the 1st of January next, Messrs. Baring & Co. are the present agents. Some disputes of great importance are said to have led to the change."

James Buchanan is with pleasure to announce the election of two highly gifted and talented gentlemen to the Senate of the United States by the legislature of the state of Mississippi. James Buchanan is a warm supporter of the present and a personal friend to Andrew Jackson, and in Van Buren.

Two journeys ex-soldiers of Philadelphia have prepared a pitcher, composed of 750 staves of the celebrated treaty oak of William Penn, to the president of the United States. The pitcher is hoop'd with bands of silver, and ornamented with devices highly wrought of the same metal. It bears the following inscription:

"THIS PITCHER
Consisting of 750 staves, made by James Cassidy, from a pile of live trees, under which the treaty between William Penn and the Aborigines was concluded, formed the basis of the pitcher, was presented by the ex-soldier of Philadelphia, to Andrew Jackson, President of the United States of America, Dec. 1st, 1834—a testimony of their high estimation of his public service."

The confidence in the virtue and patriotism of the president, breathed by the donors in their letter tendering this gift to him, is the pride of the people, wherever and whenever they are independent—even during the rage of terror or of paucity—in the city of the plague or of the Bank.

Jessieonson.—A. B. a citizen of Maryland, sued in the Circuit Court of the U. S. C. D. as alias, of the State of New-York. It was contended that the court had no jurisdiction, because the alien was not a resident of the same state with the citizen. The court decided that it had jurisdiction under the Constitution and Judiciary Act.

Captain Sibley, of the brig Ann, arrived at Baltimore, 105 days from Morocco, reports that all the ports on the Arabian side of the Red Sea, were blockaded by the Egyptian squadron, and an expedition was about setting out from Jiddah, under direction of the Europeans, for the purpose of conquering the country of Yemen—all business at a stand.

FOR THE RECORD.

(QUESTION.)
New France Minister.—The statement given in our periodical, of the allied composition of the French Cabinet, is, as we have reason to think, aperçus phil. A letter to the editor, from a good source, which reached us long after our paper was press, furnishes the following:

HARVEY, Nov. 11, 1834.

"Nothing certain was known as to who would form the new ministry, when the cabinet left Paris last evening at 8 o'clock.

"The name of the morning paper mentioned the following:
M. Molé, President of the Councils and Foreign Affairs, Gén. Gu. Lemoine—War.

"Pelot de Loxière—Interior.

M. Calonne—Finance.

M. Comte de Poix—Public Instruction.

Perré, and Adolphe Joffre, remaining Ministers of Justice and Marine.

There is nothing new. Miss has the command of the Queen's Army in the North of Spain, and much is expected from her.

This, it will be perceived, is a wholly different list from that published yesterday; and as our correspondent states that up to 6 o'clock of the evening of the 10th, when the Estafette left Paris, nothing certain was known—as some of the French papers, in the 10th circulated the above list, as the Formula of the 11th, it seems reasonable to conclude that the information was, &c., the latest, and that the import of it, as regards a new Cabinet, is that nothing was decided.

FOREIGN EXTRACTS.

We wonder if the late Mr. Bullock, the Bank correspondent I mean, is, or a descendant of the late light of Hartford, who were willing to side with Great Britain last war, and would join France even now! Such men without principle or honor, would oppose any measure they dare be independent—even during the rage of terror or of paucity—in the city of the plague or of the Bank.

Jessieonson.—A. B. a citizen of Maryland, sued in the Circuit Court of the U. S. C. D. as alias, of the State of New-York. It was contended that the court had no jurisdiction, because the alien was not a resident of the same state with the citizen. The court decided that it had jurisdiction under the Constitution and Judiciary Act.

FOR THE RECORD.

Sunday evening.—The Heart of Mid-Lethia, the couple of this has shown great judgment in their selection of names, and the poem is an extremely good effort on the part of Mrs. Pritchard's Madge Wildfire is really superb; the悲惨 ignorance of the unconscious innocent and the heartrending emotions occasioned by the returning interval of memory are depicted to the life—a vivid and moving picture. The scene at the tomb of her murdered child, is the picture of mind possessed of all power of expression—

Her heart is altogether too rapid, as her motions are too much like those of a dancing doll. In a word Jeanne Deans was *—Kiss still worse! Of Mazyey, we are in the words of James Wright, "O Mrs. Higgins of Higgins, Higgins, Higgins, Higgins, Higgins, Higgins, Higgins, as old David Davis, as excellent as usual—Theme:— Thine!—Thine!—Thine!—Thine!—Thine!—Thine!—Thine!
What must have been the spirit of Dum-dumlicious? Those must have been the Dumb-dumblicious?"

Most generous and magnificent managers, a world where did you pick Corri, Brace, Carr, Manly & Co., sure such a set we've seen! This is your company, for adventure! admirable assemblage! The best in the Union, (in your opinion, because best) but thank them Paxton, Paxton, and over two more deservedly favorite and eminent members. Marston was again played to a well-filled house, and with unanimous applause.— We cannot say too much in praise of this admirable performer.

A. Love & Co. Drama.

Well recommended.—In this notice we made a Saturday of the theatre, in the arrangement for transporting the great audience, we intended to state that during the time when we were to have the audience to transfer the stock from the one theatre to the new one, we had arranged to have the audience sent to the new theatre. The audience, however, had to be transported back to the old theatre, and this city, but three times a week. After the present week, it is probable our daily mail will be suspended for some time to come.—H. H. R.

REPUTATION

Mr. F. Karpf, in some lines which appeared in the Christian Advocate of Saturday last, addressed to him by Tag Junior, of the firm of Tag, Tag, Robert & Co., Kind Master Tag, I thank you much for your sweet lines. I like the touch Delicious praise of us all now, I cannot find

Terms power enough to show
My gratitude.

On my Tag tell you not know,
I am a true friend, now.

When I look upon the row,
Of lines of rhyme,

That from the sounding lyre did flow,
In tuneful strains!

Dear master Tag, I may be Far from being a land and sea,
I shall not cease to think of thee,
Do give me strength with me.

And I must show it,

But Mr. Tag, the lady fair,
Is behavior to take good care,

Or else I may spoil you there.

Perhaps you do not know That I'm a most enchanting girl,

And am a gallant beast.

Nay master Tag be not afraid

That I'm about to court the maid,

That's not the case, you see.

But I'm a most enchanting girl,

And am a gallant beast.

Nay master Tag be not afraid

That I'm about to court the maid,

That's not the case, you see.

But I'm a most enchanting girl,

And am a gallant beast.

Nay master Tag be not afraid

That I'm about to court the maid,

That's not the case, you see.

But I'm a most enchanting girl,

And am a gallant beast.

Nay master Tag be not afraid

That I'm about to court the maid,

That's not the case, you see.

But I'm a most enchanting girl,

And am a gallant beast.
