Monday morning, Feb'y 2, 1846.

We were in hopes that under the liberal provisions of the New Constitution, in regard to the right of suffrage, no pretext would have been afforded during the late election for the commission of fraud or injustice. But it seems that we were mistaken and that locofocoism, not content with an acknowledged victory, has been laboring to render it more significant by acts which should receive the reprobation of every honest member of society.

In the large and populous parish of St. Landry, where more than twelve hundred votes were polled at the Presidential election, and where the whig majorities have generally ranged at between 200 and 450, according to the returns transmitted by the Parish Judge, the vote barely reaches 200, and instead of the whole whig ticket being chosen, one whig and one locofoco are elected Senators, and two whigs, two locofocos and one independent are returned as representatives. This result is the more remarkable, as according to the full and complete returns published in the St. Landry papers, Dr Bura, has 998 majority and the entire whig ticket for the Senate and House has prevailed by an average majority of 250 votes. We have made enquiry into the cause of this astonishing discrepancy between the vote actually cast and the vote returned to the Secretary of State, and have found that the commissioners of election, upon light and frivolous pretexts of informality, had taken upon themselves to reject the votes in most of the precincts, and especially in the town of Opelousas and at De Bailon's. In the first of these precincts the vote for Governor stood, Dr Bura 75; Johnson 7. By throwing out these votes and those of one or two precincts, constituting in the aggregate seven-eighths of the entire vote given, the functionary whose duty it is to make the return to the Secretary of State, has contrived to cut it down to about 200, and to elect three locofocos and one independent to the Legislature.

It is said that the polls were opened half an hour after the time fixed by law, in the rejected precincts, and that the commissioners of these precincts were to a man locofocos. Are the people to be swindled out of their suffrages because locofoco inspectors think proper apparently with a view to have their returns rejected) to disregard the strict letter of the law?—We should imagine not. Such a precedent would put it in the power of any commissioner to annul the vote of any parish, whenever he concludes that by thus acting, his party might reap a certain and substantial benefit.

At the time of the rejection of these votes, the commissioners were doubtless ignorant of the fact that the locofoco party had carried both branches of the Legislature. They knew very well, however, that a United States Senator was to be chosen during the first week of the coming session, that the candidates receiving the certificates of election would have a prima facie right to their seats; that they might vote for and assist in electing a Senator long before they could possibly be ousted by the contestants; and that in the event of the Legislature being nearly equally divided, a locofoco Senator and two locofoco representatives from St Landry might throw the balance of power into the hands of that party. Herein perhaps we may trace the secret of their conduct. It is a very suspicious circumstance, that the pretended informalities upon which the vote of St. Landry has been so dreadfully curtailed, should have occurred in the strongest whig parish in the State and should figure exclusively to the benefit of locofocoism. We hear no where else of the rejection of whole precints, the devoted parish of St. Landry alone has been made the subject of this new experiment upon the patience of the whig party.

If the gentlemen of the opposite party, who by a proceeding so unfair, may temporarily occupy seats in the Legislature to which their constituents never elected them, profess a spark of the lofty and chivalrous feelings of the South, they will scorn to profit by the circumstance. Indeed, we have already heard it stated, that one at least has declared that he will not claim a place in the Legislature which the people of his parish had clearly designed to bestow upon others.

Congressional Proceedings.

In the SENATE on the 22d January, after the presentation of numerous petitions and memorials, a resolution was submitted calling upon the Secretary of War for a statement of all the treaties with the Indians, the quantity of lands received from them, where situated, the money paid, in what stocks invested, and by what authority. Some discussion followed.

Mr Benton was opposed to the vast accumulation of Senate documents. When he first came to Congress, documents were not so plentiful, and the market price was four cents per pound, but the market became so glutted that the grocers and dry goods dealers refused to give more than two cents per pound for them. The consumption was not equal to the supply, and they had actually become an article of export.

After some remarks by Messrs. Jarnagin, Dickinson, Speight and Cass, the subject was laid over to the next day.

Mr Allen then rose for a personal explanation of some remarks made by him the day previous. He had been reported as expressing an apprehension that war would come from giving the notice to Great Britain. He had not said this, but had rather contended that Great Britain would not find in the fact of giving the notice any just cause of war. Moreover he would say now, however much Senators might justly differ as to the probable effect of notice, that England would not go to war upon this Oregon question at all, unless she desired to make that a pretext for a conflict with us in reference to other matter of State policy.

Mr Calhoun also desired to correct a misapprehension of his remarks. He had not said that giving the notice would be war itself, but he had said that giving the notice might lead to war.

The Senate went into Executive Session, and after some time spent therein, adjourned to Monday, the 26th.

In the HOUSE a long debate arose on a communication from the Clerk in reference to ten thousand copies of the report of Captain Fremont, ordered by the last Congress, and subsequently demanded by the present House for their own use. The Clerk had been accustomed to regard such orders as sacred and was embarrassed by the conflicting character of the two resolutions. After much discussion the House adopted a resolution requiring the Clerk forthwith to deliver the books, or in other words, setting at naught the order given by the last House.

On motion of Mr. Sawtelle a resolution was adopted appointing a Committee clothed with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire whether any member of the 28th Congress had ever sold any book which he had received from Congress.

The Florida contested election was then taken up. Mr Cabell, the sitting member, proposed to Mr Brockenbrough, the Contestant, to reexamine the whole subject without debate to the Committee on Elections, with instructions to allow both the contestant and himself the privilege of obtaining evidence from Florida. If he should decline this, he would propose to him to submit their respective claims a second time to the decision of the people of Florida.—Mr. Brockenbrough refused to acquiesce in either proposition, and addressed the House at length in defence of his right to membership until the hour of adjournment.

☞ The schr Merchant, of New York, arrived at Charleston on the 23d ult., from the coast of Africa, via Port Praya, (Cape de Verde Islands) acting master Henry Rolando, commanding, prize to the U. S. ship Jamestown, Commander Skinner. The Merchant sailed from Havana on the 18th June for the coast of Africa, and was first captured by H. B. M. sloop Cygnet, on the coast, for having been engaged in the slave trade, and carried to Sierra Leone, where her case was tried, but they not being able to condemn her, she was released. The U. S. ship Jamestown, Commodore Skinner, arriving at Sierra Leone shortly afterwards, made a prize of her, and sent her to the United States for judicature. Capt. Larkin, the original captain, mate and one seaman, came home in the Merchant. Passed Midshipman G. B. Balch also came home in the Merchant. The M. has on board gunpowder, muskets, calicoes, &c.

THE GREAT RACE.—One of the most interesting pedestrian races ever undertaken in this country, will take place over the Metairie Course on Sunday next. The competitors are Jackson, "the American Deer," Gildersleeve, Desmond and Nevill. Jackson is a runner of well established ability, and has offered to give his rivals 600 yards advance in the proposed race of running fifteen miles in one hour and thirty minutes. The betting is already excitingly lively, and we are assured that the race will prove one of the greatest novelties of the season.

THE MEDRANO CASE.—The argument in this case was concluded in the District Court on Saturday evening. Mr. Grymes made an ingenious and powerful argument for the incarcerated priest, and endeavored to prove that he neither owed any money to Barnard, nor had he absconded from New York. Judge Buchanan took a different view of the case, and maintained that the prisoner had absconded clandestinely, and under that impression he left it his duty to maintain the writ of arrest. Ildefonso Medrano therefore remains in prison.

RECORDER GENOIS COURT.—Alexander McGregor was arrested and examined for making a deadly assault upon Thomas Hopkins, a police officer, while the latter was endeavoring to arrest him. On laying hold of him, McGregor drew a large knife and inflicted a severe wound on his left temple. Other officers came up and McGregor was captured. The Recorder sent him to the Criminal Court for trial.

Peter Leverin, accused of stealing a pair of shoes, was sent to the Criminal Court.
