FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY,

OF KENTUCKY

Subject to the decision of a National Convention

NEW-ORLEANS:

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 6, 1839

LOCO-FOCO LOGIC.

The Locos are congratulating themselves [illegible] upon the anticipated issue of the presidential [illegible]. They are exulting at the idea that in Geor[illegible] and South Carolina an opposition ticket will not [illegible] and that the great west will abandon the [illegible] cause, when Mr. Clay is nominated. The[illegible] have been in shadows. Mr. Clay's strength [illegible] is daily increasing. The whigs have no [illegible] of being enabled to carry the electoral [illegible] of Georgia and South Carolina. The first ha[illegible] been remembered a doubtful state, and the [illegible] expression in her determinations and so in[illegible] acable as in her obedience to the dictates [illegible] ch. I all calculations upon her vote [illegible]. She may vote for Van Buren—she may [illegible] vote for Clay—she may suddenly veer round [illegible] Mr. Clay. But the whigs [illegible] boast of [illegible] in South Carolina or Louisiana and [illegible] three states which voted for Mr. Van Bu[illegible] and which, if the signs of the times [illegible] the delusive will sustain the nominee of the [illegible] ention in 1840. Twenty-four votes [illegible] Van Buren and given to Clay, make a [illegible] which we should think Ewen in Ye[illegible] a pretty [illegible] strong and not unreason[illegible]. If this strong hold of loodleism is not [illegible] present incumbent, the game is up with M[illegible]

Van Buren carried New York in 1836—the [illegible] now altogether in favor of the whigs—[illegible] it went for locofocoism two years since, [illegible] reputation now? The locofocos have gained [illegible] state Ohio and perhaps Delaware and Inve[illegible] connects at New York, Mississippi, North Caro[illegible] and Louisiana. We base this statement of hope [illegible] on the result of the last elections and [illegible] the influence of the panic had subsid[illegible] of which public opinion had had ample time to [illegible] the west—the west, say the loco prints, Mr. Clay's [illegible] and, shows signs of broken allegiance [illegible] ve to there. Messrs. Locofocos! Give no [illegible] west credit for a desire to abandon Mr Clay [illegible] a party friendly to general Harrison, and [illegible] to his nomination, because that Indiana [illegible] wavered over to the Gothic and Vandalic, (I e.) [illegible] vote in favor Mr. Clay be the candidate, is the in[illegible] that the west will go for Van Buren sound and [illegible]. We must have evidence more substantial [illegible] we can admit the possibility of what the ad[illegible] ration now [illegible] to be indefatigable—[illegible] such evidence is close at hand. The elec[illegible] tions of Indiana Kentucky and Tennessee [illegible] come off before. We shall speedily know whether [illegible] ers in those states are as invincible as their [illegible] gogues. We do not expect to elect six out of [illegible] congress in Indiana, twelve out of thirteen [illegible] Kentucky, or perhaps ten out of thirteen [illegible] ; we will be satisfied, as the Yankee says, [illegible] with a fair calculation upon her vote [illegible] ction. She may vote for Van Buren—she may [illegible] vote for Clay—she may suddenly veer round [illegible] of course Mr. Clay. But the whigs [illegible] boast of [illegible] our principles in South Carolina and in [illegible] three states which voted for Mr. Van Bu[illegible] and which, if the signs of the times [illegible] the delusive will sustain the nominee of the [illegible] ention in 1840. Twenty-four votes [illegible] Van Buren and given to Clay, make a [illegible] which we should think Ewen in Ye[illegible] a pretty [illegible] strong and not unreason[illegible]. If this strong hold of loodleism is not [illegible] present incumbent, the game is up with M[illegible]
