FOR GOVERNOR J. B. DAWSON. JOHN H. HOLLAND.

FOR CONGRESS: Let Matrict—CHARLES CAYARRE'. 24 Metrict—JAMES M., BRADFORD.

An Act of the Legislature, approved 14th March 1820. *ART. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Mayor and Recorder shall be chosen from among the citizens who are heads of fumilies, and resident within the city at the time of their election, and possess the other qualifications required by the existing laws."

Follow citizens, if the law pequires this as a condition in completing the eligibility of a candidnte for the place of Mayor, judge if respect for public manners and morals, does not more imperiously exact that it should be found in a candidate for the office of Governor.

We are requested to ahnounce E. A. CANON, esq. as ustable person to till the place of recorder, at the ap-

BE ON THE ALERT! TO THE POLLS!

The voice of the people is to be heard! They are to-day to proclaim their choice, and in a few hours a Recorder will be elected. Every citizen has the right to vote for whom he pleases, and none should dispense with the inestimable privioge of indicating this choice through the ballot box. Let it be impressed on the mind of every voter that his single vote may decide the contest.

It is impredent to be too sanguine in our calculations abo the success of a candidate; many a good and popular cause has been lost through inertness. For ourselves, it is our opin ion, that the greater the prospect of success is, the greater one as his high claims merit. Arouse then, and to the polls! Let us forget for a moment private feelings for the public goods Let every citizen do his duty, and not forget the obligation imposed upon him by the privilege of popular suffrage Citizens: remember the necessity of reform and ameliorations in our municipal affairs, and the necessity of removing inveterate abuses which hang like a dead weight upon the energic of our city.

Reflect all upon the important duties attached to the office of Recorder, under the peculiar organization of our municipal system, and do not lose sight of the absolute necessity of osing a man of vigorous judgment, good principles and

We have received, by yesterday's mail, files of English pa

The editor of the Mercantile of Saturday, in an article calling into question the correctness of our theory respecting the ate phenomena, allegea that 'we are ignorant of the sciences. That such as he should set himself up to be a judge of such matters, shows nothing more than that excessive ignorance is generally accompanied by insufferable vanity and dogma-

The Mahama Controversy.—The President has disappro ved of the conduct of Maj. McIntesh in resisting the process issued against him by the Circuit Court of Russell county, Alabama, and he has requested that officer henceforth not to interpose any ebstacles to the service of legal precepts issuing from the State Courts.

Dos Pedro, it would seem, loses none of the industry and energy which belonged to his character while on the throne of Brayin. A letter from Lisbon, under date of 14th Sept. to the editors of the N. Y. Daily Advartiser, says:

Dos Pedro's activity is indefinigable and astonishing. He rises early, never later than 5 o'clock, rides out with all his staff at sax; examines the lines of defetices speaks with one, choourages another, 'and by all is lik at and obeyed despeated his ministers, attends the council, pays and receives visits, &c.

A letter dated the 4th of September, gives the following account of a collection of military force, which seems to indicate some formidable movement.

"The number of (Austrian) troops in the arrivors of Mantua is daily sugmented. The largest camp, perhaps ever formed, is now assembled in the environs—it consists of 50,000 men, with 300 pieces of cannon. Only four regiments of cavalry will be there, partly on account of the scarcity of forage, and partly because the ground is not favorable for cavalry maucuvers. Four thousand addices are constantly employed in the fortifications of Verona."

Advices from the Turkish capital are to the 26th of August. This devoted empire seems to have escaped one scourge, only to become the victim of another. It has just obtained deliverance from a rebellious Pacha, and is now in jeopardy, not less appalling, from domestic and rackles

"On the 19th there was another great fire at Azab Kubusi, near Galata, which destroyed above 300 houses.—
The fire was to all appearance the work of incend aries, as combustibles were found concealed in many other places. Since then we have no reports of a new conspiracy, respecting which the government has some details. How far the statements circulated are true, must be left to time to show, but it is certain that the government believes them. It is said that many individuals accused of being concorned in this conspiracy have been secretly put out of the way, and that such cases are of almost daily occurrence. Such a mode of proceeding makes, indeed, a strong contrast with this conspiracy have been secretly put out of the way, and that such cases are of almost daily occurrence. Such a mode of proceeding makes, indeed, a strong contrast with the firman lately addressed by the Sultan to all the Pachas, which orders that formal proceedings are to be instituted against all persons ascured of any crime whatever, and that no sentence shall be carried into execution if, not pronounced by a competent tribunal, and no sentence of death shall be carried into effect without the previous sanction of the Sultan. Preparations are now making for a caravan of pilgrims to Mecca, which is expected

There are some cases of plague existing in the Turkish capital, and also indications of choloro, but it was general-ion, that the greater the prospect of success is, the greater should be the exertion, and that the more a candidate deserves the preference, so much more is the necessity of leaving nothing to chance.

We repeat again, a single vote might decide the election of the post in the property of the property of the post into the post into the result.

Mr. Canon, and who is there among us who is aware of what importance such a choice would be to our city, that would heatsate to do all in his power to secure beyond the possibility of a doubt the result.

We have expressed our firm conviction, that Mr. Canon unites in himself the highest qualifications for the post. The public voice, it would appear, rallies upon him, and nothing but culpable negligence and too much confidence as to the result, can prevent his election by an imposing majority—such a one as his high claims merit. Arouse thefi and to the polist Letus forcet for a majority of those of the post of the princes of Admiralty or the Crown Lands of England was worth the fee simple of all that these paper Funces possessed. But their son George IV, was maile to marry a woman he never saw, and on the basest of all pleas—the ribe of his father paying his debts out of our pockets. instincts and sympathies of nature. His bride, his victim, avowed her repugnance to him, and confessed that her affections were devoted to another. Still they were compelled to marry. She arrived in England in tears, and her sufferings with her untimely death, can never be forgotten. The next son, the Duke of York, was likewise compelled to marry a person whom he never saw, and whom it com men report were not a slanderer, he had every reason t

These Princes marry by pictures—the portraits to be exchanged are flattered by venal articts for high bribes. We have seen several of them, and they bear no more reasonblance to the originals than Hyperion to a Satyr. Who can say that the vices of these two detestably bad characters did not originate from the cruel violations of nature inflicted upon their youth under this Marriage Act? Und they been allowed to marry where nifection and inclination prompted—where beauty excited admiration, and virtues elicited esteem—had they been allowed to indulge in those sympathies by which God at once gratifies and elevates our natures, by the social affections, with their moralizing influences—they might not have lived the curse and disgrace of their age, or died such and spectacles of depravity. The sacrifices of the two eldest born moved not the obdurate heart of the father. When the younger sun, it has of Sussex, married Lady Augusta Murray, with every prospect of happiness, the Royal Marriage Act was put in force; an informality respecting the notice to the Privy Council was taken advantage of, the Prince was empelled to violate his eath, to-outrage nature, insult the public morals by bactardising his children, and proclaiming his wife a prostitute. Such was the conduct imposed upon a son by a father, of whom it was justly said, that be could persuade him that he sinned in the cause of religion—a task never found difficult. If the public judgment be not raisled, this detestable Marriage Act has had its effects upon the females of the royal family. We want no mere importations of German military principle—let us be English, and if we are to have Princes, let them have English wives, and bring their children up in English principles, and in the feer and love of the English people. These Princes marry by pictures—the portraits to be exlish wives, and bring their children up in English principles, and in the fear and love of the English people.
