ADECPHIA: J B. LITPINCOTT & CO. 188.
This is not a collection of the efficial dipatches of Mr. Dallas to his government, but of lotters less formal and more familiar, addressed to Mr. Marcy and Mr. Casa, who were the Secretarist of State in the Cabinets of President Pierce and Bachanan, under whom Mr. Dallas acred. A few off the letters were written to resiston holding no efficial station. It seems that Mr. Dallas, and we emplose the custom fewer of the content of the content of the United States through the State Department, all the notable events of a political character, occarring in Europe, particularly in England, during his embassy. The adoption of such acred and much of the gressip of the Court to which he was accordized, and to speak freely of the assion and tendencies of the Quesie Alignment of New York, and the same instructions, it is another way. These letters must have been exceedingly interesting to the Administration at Washington, forming as they did a running commentary by a very suspections and giving an taking to much that was not offer wise explained. Mr. Dallas himself says in the preface to the compilation.
