

The oldest daily newspaper published in the city of New Orleans. In continuous existence since September, 1827.

L'Abeille de la Nouvelle-Orléans

POÉSIE LITTÉRAIRE

PRO ARIS ET FOVIS

SCIENCES, ARTS

Published every morning except Monday in French and English, with an exclusively French newspaper issued weekly.

THE NEW ORLEANS BEE

VOLUME 90

NEW ORLEANS, LA., SUNDAY, MAY 13, 1917.

NUMBER 262

NATIONAL PROHIBITION IS BROUGHT ONE STEP NEARER

Senate Adopts Amendment to Prohibit Use of Grain for Alcohol--Col. Roosevelt Wins Out

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—A long step toward making the nation dry for the period of the war was taken this evening when the Senate, by a vote of 38 to 33, adopted the Cummins amendment to the Espionage bill prohibiting the use of grains for the manufacture of alcoholic beverages. There is nothing to night to indicate the sentiment in the House on the question. The amendment does not apply to wine.

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—Col. Roosevelt's fight for congressional authority to raise a division of volunteers for service in France won by a vote of 215 to 178 in the House this afternoon was recommitted to the conference report on the Conscription bill with instructions to the conferees to reach an agreement to the Senate amendment authorizing the acceptance of Roosevelt's offer. Later the Senate withdrew the adverse report submitted Thursday, and the report went back to conference. The conferees will meet Monday, and with their new instructions the indications are that an agreement will be reached in a few hours.

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—The censorship provision in the Espionage bill was voted down by the Senate today by a vote of 39 to 38. The Senate accepted Senator Johnson's amendment striking out the whole censorship provision. Another roll call is probable when the bill comes up for final disposition next week, but there is every indication to believe the censorship will not be revived.

The defeat of the censorship is a great victory for Senator Johnson. Party lines were entirely wiped out. Johnson won by warning the Senate constantly that "While we are seeking to put down autocracy in Europe let us be careful we don't establish it in America."

REGULATIONS OF FOOD DEMANDED

By International News Service.

Chicago, May 12.—A demand that Federal laws for the conservation of food and fuel be enacted immediately has been made by the Illinois state council of defense. It urges Congress to empower the President to appoint a commission with full power to regulate and control the production, distribution and prices of foodstuffs.

MINE EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR

Harrisburg, Ill., May 12.—Four miners were killed by gas explosion in the Grayson mine today. The cause of the explosion is undetermined.

ANOTHER LINK PROVIDED IN HIGHWAY TO THE COAST

Another small link in the transcontinental highway between New Orleans and the Pacific coast was provided for last week. The Acadia police jury let the contract to Perry and Bonney, of this city, for the construction of 14 miles of gravel roads between Crowley and the Mermentau river, at a cost of $55,000. This provides for a hard-surfaced highway the entire distance between Crowley and the Texas line, 80 miles long and traversing the parishes of Acadia, Jefferson Davis and Calcasieu.

FOOD COMMISSION PLAN IS READY FOR ADOPTION

A meeting of the executive committee of the Orleans parish food commission will be held in the mayor's office at the City Hall Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The committee of organization, composed of E. O. Wild, H. M. Shilstone and Stanley F. Morse, has completed plans for placing the entire city on a practical basis for food production work. The plan, it is said, includes the purchase of seed and supplying of tools to those unable to make the expenditures themselves.

AIL PUNCTURE COSTS BOY'S LIFE

Four-year-old Jules, age 3d, 2531 Chartres street, died in the Charity Hospital yesterday afternoon from tetanus, which resulted from a slight puncture of the hand caused by a nail, last week.

When little Jules was hurt the wound was not considered serious. However, a day or two later he became ill. A doctor was called in and he diagnosed the case as tetanus and advised removal of the nail by Mr. Appel's new position.

Despite efforts of the doctors, his condition grew worse. Friday night practically all hopes for recovery were given up, and yesterday he died.

WATERWAYS PLANS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

Map in New Orleans interested in the development of the Mississippi river for the movement of heavy freight are much encouraged by recent developments, and look to see the rehabilitation of river traffic in the near future. They regard it as extremely probable that the government will direct that a large part of the freight between river points be transported by water, in order to conserve the railroad equipment for other purposes.

This city will be well represented at the conference to be held in Washington this week by the shipping board, secretary of war and council of national defense, at which conference the large cities along the Mississippi will have spokesmen. The government is expected to take an active hand in the matter, following the conference.

Those who will leave this city Monday night to attend the conference are the following: John M. Parker, M. J. Sanders, president of the board of trade; W. P. Ross, chairman of the transportation committee at the recent St. Louis convention; Commodore Ernest Lee Jahncke, and T. F. Cunningham,

BANQUETED BY HIS ASSOCIATES PREFERENCES DEATH TO WHITE PLAGUE

MONTELEONE HOTEL BIDS FARE WELL TO MR. APPEL

TO MANAGE THE HOTEL BENTLEY

Fine Hotel in Louisiana Outside of New Orleans—Has Been With Monteleone Six Years

Checkers and members of the Monteleone Hotel staff last night tendered a farewell banquet to Mr. Appel, who for six years has been connected with the Monteleone and recently transferred to manage the Bentley hotel at Vicksburg.

Mr. Appel, a graduate of the Hotel School, was first engaged at the Bentley. Many prominent guests in the industry of Mr. Appel were present at the farewell dinner.

Mr. Appel was one of the most popular members of the Monteleone staff last night tendered a farewell banquet to Mr. Appel, who for six years has been connected with the Monteleone and recently transferred to manage the Bentley hotel at Vicksburg.

Mr. Appel is one of the best known men in the state and is well-known both by followers of this profession and the community at large. He has been connected with several large hotels and came to New Orleans from Indianapolis where he was connected with the Carlton Hotel.

In going to Indianapolis he was sure the蒙特利昂酒店的经理们在昨晚为Appel先生举办了欢送晚宴，他将前往维克斯堡管理Bentley酒店。

To her horror Mrs. James discovered an awful expression on her husband's face. His lips were burned and beside him lay a bottle. A shriek from her brought other members of the family into the room. She fainted.

And so Mrs. James told police and reporters of her husband's act.

She said he had been ill, for sometime, removing his bad consumption, and that he smoked himself

Mrs. James' parents, Michael and Anna, conducted a bakery at the Camp Place address.

The star witness was Mr. George H. Bentley, whose manager also present, will be in charge of the hotel. Mr. Appel, manager; H. C. Collier, assistant manager; E. V. Ferry, chief cook; R. F. Mason, day cook; Mr. McNamee, cook from the old-time hotel; R. M. Hale, night cook; Mr. Morrison comes from the old-time hotel; D. Dallas, Texas.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The star witness was Mr. George H. Bentley, whose manager also present, will be in charge of the hotel. Mr. Appel, manager; H. C. Collier, assistant manager; E. V. Ferry, chief cook; R. F. Mason, day cook; Mr. McNamee, cook from the old-time hotel; R. M. Hale, night cook; Mr. Morrison comes from the old-time hotel; D. Dallas, Texas.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and many New Orleanians hope to testify to the importance of Mr. Appel's new position.

The Bentley was built ten years ago by Joseph Bentley, one of the state's biggest owners of lumberland and sawmill properties. It cost $750,000 and