FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY.

(Subject to the decision of the American People.)

NEW-ORLEANS:

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 22, 1842.

☞ The Committee of Arrangements for the reception of Mr. Clay, will meet at my office, No. 21, St. Charles street, at 9 o'clock This Morning precisely.

W. CHRISTY,
Chairman.

MUNICIPALITY NOTES.

The judicious measures adopted by the First Municipality Council for the withdrawal of their bonds, and the absolute certainty that no more will be issued, have already exerted an excellent influence on the value of this species of circulating medium; within the last week, the notes of the First Municipality having appreciated fully 3¼ to 4 per cent. It is with great pleasure that we are now enabled to add, that the Council of the Second Municipality have taken similar steps to protect the community from the depreciation of their issues, and to secure their gradual withdrawal from circulation. At the sitting of the Council on Tuesday night the Treasurer of the Municipality reported that he had on hand $102,100 of these notes ready for retirement. Of this amount $26,600 had accrued from the reduction of the circulation since the 10th November last, the remaining $72 500 being then redeemed. Whereupon Mr. CALDWELL moved that the entire amount be destroyed in presence of the Finance Committee; that all forms of notes or unsigned notes in the hands of the Comptroller or Treasurer be destroyed, and that the plates with which these notes have been struck be also destroyed. After some discussion, the resolutions were adopted with but a single dissenting voice.

The public may henceforth, remain satisfied that no further issues of municipality notes will be made by either of the councils. In proportion as the notes are paid in to taxes or other dues, they will be destroyed, and in the course of a very few months, we hope that not a solitary dollar of these emtions will remain in circulation. It is our belief that these notes will now rapidly enhance in value. The amount in circulation is small and every day diminishing, while the guarantees of their ultimate and speedy redemption are beyond suspicion.

POLITICS AT THE SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.

A friend at Washington writing to us under date of the 12th inst. remarks:

"Look around, I pray you upon the spectacle of our Public Affairs and Men: see what they are, and tell me whether things so conducted merit to be considered as any thing better than the perfect realisation of that notion of I forget which of the old Philosophers, who held that Gods had very humanely, made the earth and mortals, merely to divert themselves with, after dinner, as you lounge to the theatre, to see a farce; or put your head out at the window, to watch the tricks of a company of dancing dogs, or the humors of scaramouche."

In this sense, I take the dramatic entertainments of Jacksonism, lately ended, to have been a rather dismal Tragedy, with Van Burenism for its somewhat lame catastrophe. As a whole, if it has diverted the Gods, I can only say that it has been rather cruel pastime to us on earth. At present, according to the usual theatrical arrangement, we have come to the After-piece—a farce certainly, the saddest that ever drew the executions of an audience. As yet, we have only, among a thousand marks of universal annoyance, reached its second act. Now, the horrible-pie, exceeding, by one, the legitimate measure of three-act farces, has four. Imagine, then, the progress, from hisses to groans and curses, that is to come! The parts—except the main one of Sganarelle (every where the dupe, you know, in Molière) —were sand, in the bills, to be prodigious strongly cast, and yet, so admirable is the piece and so detestably acted, that some of the principal performers will (it is said) be withdrawn, early in the third act—say about March next. To succeed them, we are promised one Caleb Cushing, as Mr. Treasurer's double, and one Andrew Stevenson as Mr. Webster's—actors still less public pets than the stars whom they supplant, and (in short) two as complete political Suck-eggs as any alive. Judge how they will be received! If, before the end of this fourth act, they don't get pelted from the stage, it will entirely be for want of rotten apples. You may expect a bon-fire of the benches, and that the audience will become the principal performers, before the curtain drops forever upon Mr. Manager Tyler's unhappy buffooneries.

Well: but you wish a brief history of things in their present aspect. I will try and give you it.

All events, I take it, are in pretty nearly equal tribulation—the whigs, with their late dissensions; the locofocos, with successes that only now embroil them; the Tylerians, with the refusal of one party to let them share in their good luck, and of the other to admit them even to their ill. The first party grieves for a lost supremacy, which in truth embarrassed it: the second finds itself involved in a very ticklish ascendency; the last is completely at its wit's end—which, however, is no very long journey. The first can be no further damaged by betrayal, having now lost all that drew traitors into its ranks. Courage and good principles are all that are left it: these, deserters are not usually able to carry off with them.—The democrats, who tempted and profited by the treason, now taste the advantages of having the traitor in their own camp, not the enemies—aye, and having him there doubly armed for mischief against them, in the influence, the credit among their simple followers, which they gave him, by their counterfeit applauses of a conduct which they only esteemed because it hurt their adversaries. As for the President, he has attained, most triumphantly, the declared object of all his most fervent vows. He absured every thing like party: the people have taken him at his word, and form none in his favor. They set too high and too just an estimate upon the rare and shining virtue of sincerity which so much adorns him, to think of tempting him out of it, by forming—what would, indeed be a solecism the most ridiculous—a party in support of him who denounces partyism. The Gods, to punish him, have granted his hypocritical prayers, and he is still, more than ever, "a President without a party."

Thus, you see, the reverses and the successes on all sides are largely mixed with compensating circumstances; and are, in a word, just such as to remind one of what Homer says Jove (he avers) keeps in his cellar two great barrels, the one of Good, the other of Ill; which stand constantly upon tap, and out of which he helps mortals; but never to either alone, mingling them now in a greater and now in a smaller proportion, according to the customer for whom he dosses the drink."

COMMERCIAL COURT—Affair of the Creole.—This was a suit instituted by the owners of the Creole against the Orleans, Ocean, Merchants' and Firemens' Insurance Companies, for $100,000—the amount of insurance on the vessel. Messrs. Rosselius, Peyton, Smith, Jones and Eustis are engaged for the plaintiffs. Messrs. Benjamin, Conrad and Stillwell are counsel for the defendants. The case has just commenced and will occupy the Court for some days.

THE WEATHER, at this present writing, is delightful and smacks more of spring than winter. Should it continue fine to-day, there can be no doubt that Mr. CLAY's reception will be the proudest spectacle ever witnessed in New Orleans. All classes, all ranks and politicians of every hue, are uniting in cordial concurrence to do honor to the great American statesman.

☞ Yesterday, about ten o'clock A. M., two or three men entered the house of Dr. Labatut in Royal street, and addressing themselves to a mulatto boy, asked him for something to eat. The boy answered that his master was out, and that he had nothing to give them, whereupon they withdrew; but in going one of them stole a bunch of keys and hid them under his coat. He was, however, seen by the boy, who immediately gave the necessary information to the police. The man was arrested and sent to prison. He calls himself J. Louis Maurice.

☞ On the night of the 29th ult., the Steamboat New Brazil, lying at the Rapids near Galena, Ill., was crushed by ice. Almost her whole side was stove in. Her hold filled with water, and she sunk to the bottom. The steamboat Rock Islander was sunk, and the Potosi somewhat injured.

☞ Governor PORTER, of Pennsylvania, has appointed Mr. WM. PORTER, his own, High Sheriff of the county of Philadelphia, in place of Henry Morrison, Esq., deceased. The papers speak of the nomination in strong terms of censure, as Mr. Porter is a very young man and totally unknown in the community.

☞ The Philadelphia Expreaz, a Tyler concern has died of starvation, and a paper called the Mercury is to take its place, and support the Federal Administration.

CONGRESSIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE

Washington, Dec. 19, 1842.

In the Senate, to-day, the President pro tem announced the Standing Committees. They consist pretty nearly of the same members as last session.—Mr. Rives, at his own request was excused from serving on the Committee of Foreign Relations. The principal Committees will now stand as follows: Foreign Affairs, Messrs. Archer, Berrien, Buchanan, Talmadge, Choate; Finance, Messrs. Evans, Graham, Woodbury, Berrien, Crittenden; Commerce, Henderson, Woodbridge, King, Barrow, Wright; Manufactures, Simmons, Archer, Miller, Buchanan, Morehead; Military Affairs, Crittenden, Merrick, Benton, Huntington, Wilcox; Naval Affairs, Bayard, Choate, Williams, McRoberts; Public Lands, Smith of Ia. Talmadge, Walker, Huntington, Conrad; Private Land Claims, Henderson, Linn, Tappan, Fulton, Sprague; Indian Affairs, White, Morehead, Sevier, Phelps, Baston; Claims, Graham, Wright, Woodbridge, Woodbury, Phelps; Revolutionary Claims, Phelps, Clayton, Smith of Con., Allen, Williams; Judiciary, Berrien, Clayton, Dayton, Walker, Kerr; Post Office and Post Roads, Merrick, Simmons, McRoberts, Conrad, Miller; Roads and Canals, Potter, White, Young, King, Cuthbert; Pensions, Bates, Phelps, Allen, Bagby, Sevier. Several memorials and petitions were then presented by various senators and appropriately referred. Notices of bills, resolutions and motions were also given. Some private bills were introduced and advanced for reference. The Senate then, at half past one o'clock adjourned.

In the House of Representatives the Speaker announced the Standing Committees. They are almost identically the same as last year. The debate on Mr. Adams's resolution to repeal the 21st rule was then resumed from last Thursday and after some discussion a motion to lay the resolution on the table prevailed, yeas 106, nays 102.

Mr. Fillmore, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, moved to refer those portions of the President's Message relating to the business of the Standing Committees to the respective Committees having charge of such subjects, and in particular all relating to Finance and the new plan of an Exchequer to the Committee of Ways and Means. Mr. Cushing moved an exception with regard to the Exchequer, requiring it to be referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union. A pretty sharp discussion arose on this which ended in Mr. Cushing's amendment being negatived, yeas 100, nays 105. Incidental discussions arose in relation to the reference of other portions of the Message; but on the whole, Mr. Fillmore's motion prevailed and the House adjourned.

BEWARE OF PICK-POCKETS.—They are known to be numerous in the City and will no doubt be very active in the crowd that will assemble to-day to witness the reception of Mr. CLAY.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The regular session of this court was opened on Monday, 19th December.

Honorable JOHN MCKINLEY, Presiding Judge, absent; Honorable THOMAS B. MCCALEB, District Judge, present.

At the opening of the court, the following order was made:

It is ordered by the court that (until further notice) cases pending in the Circuit Court may be fixed for trial by either party, by causing the same to be fixed by the clerk, and notice of three intervening days given to the opposite party, or his counsel, if present in the city; otherwise, said notice to be affixed for said period to the door of the Court-house.

The first week of the session will be devoted to the court causes, and the next to jury, and so on alternately.

DEATH OF A POET.—Sammy Woodworth, so well and so advantageously known as a poet of no mean order, and a most amiable and worthy man, died yesterday at his residence in Pearl street, after a long and tedious illness. Other pens will do justice to his memory—had he written nothing else but the "Moss-covered Bucket," it would have immortalized him.—New York Union.

☞ BEWARE of Oils for the Hair.—They debilitate and relax the very vessels that should be strengthened and stimulated. A healthy reflection will convince any sensible person of this. The use of oily matter causes more baldness than all other causes. Ladies, remember this, and let your toilet be furnished with the Balm of Columbia, spiritous extract of the most tonic and astringent roots, for no oiliness whatever, with the most fragrant perfume. Two Hundred cases of this unfailing and positive restorative of the hair in it, are reported. It is perfectly pure, and nearly all the fashionable use it as a perfume and purifier. Beware of those not using their hair. Sold only at 25 Magazine street.

☞ SANDS'S SARSAPARILLA.—Cure of any kind of indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Sickness of stomach, Inflammation of the stomach, and, indeed, in fact, sometimes, cause, being an unusually secretion of gastric juice and the consequent acidity of the stomach, emanation of wind, distress after eating, oppression, loss of appetite, nausea, heartburn and nausea, tremulous sensations, and a variety of other symptoms, which I hope known only to the sufferer; for thus shall I indeed discharge the duty I owe to my fellow men, and the world, having for its object the relief of suffering humanity. SANDS'S Sarsaparilla, an entirely vegetable compound, is in its operation powerful in purifying the blood, thereby, from coming in contact with the germ or cause of disease, and eliminating all unhealthy secretions by extending its influence to every part of the body, and causing, against reaction, when such unneeds debility and disease.

For certificates of cures, and various testimonials, see bills in circulars in the different daily papers.

☞ Prepared & sold (wholesale and retail, and for exportation,) by A. B. SANDS & Co., Druggists and Chemists, Granite Building, 273 Broadway, corner of Chambers street, New York.

Also for sale wholesale and retail, for exportation, at their Southern Office, No. 82 St Charles street, New Orleans.

☞ Price, To be had also of SICKLES & Co. No. 60 Canal st., and of ANDREW OLIVER & Co., 64 Chartres st. Price $1 per bottle—six bottles for $5.

Boats will be provided to be delivered, at the usual hour at Carrollton, where they will form a convoy to the boat in which Mr. Clay may descend the river. The convoy boats formed, will return and pass the city, going down as far as the Lower Rincon Cotton Press, where they will "about ship," and pass up to the lower wharf, opposite to Poydras street, where Mr. Clay will be landed, accompanied by the sub-committee, which shall have joined him at Pilgrimage.

A salute of 100 guns will be fired from the Levee, opposite the Place d'Armes and Canal street, by detachments from the Louisiana Legion and the Washington Battalion, alternately, as the steamers pass the city in descending and ascending—the first gun to be fired by the detachment from the Legion below, just as the boats reach the upper Cotton Press; the firing to be so timed as to complete the salute on the landing of Mr. Clay, when he will be presented to the Committee of Arrangements, who will bid him welcome to the city, through the Chairman.

The procession will then be formed under the direction of the Grand Marshal, Jos. Soniat Prevost, Esq. assisted by his deputies, the right resting on Poydras street and in the following
