NEW ORLEANS.
THURSDAY (MORNING) SEPT. 9, 1830.

We have received on Monday, by the schooner Nimble, Vera-Cruz and Jalapa papers to the 15th of August, from Zacatecas to the 29th July, and from Mexico to the 11th August. They contain no news of importance. The friends of Guerrero are not yet conquered. A pretty singular adventure has spread the alarm in Mexico: on the 4th of August three individuals supposed to be smugglers having led a small expedition on the coast, near Cabo-Rejo, where they landed, the alcalde of the village of Tamiagua was panic struck and hastily wrote in the most ceremonial manner to the prefect of the port of Tuxpan to inform him that the Spaniards had just made a new descent; the prefect also hastened to write to the commander of the 5th military section to communicate to him such important news, which finally spread as far as the capital, where having been transmitted by every mouth, the news was reported that five thousand men had landed on the coast of the republic!!! Already the greatest activity was going on in the office of the minister of war, when they were finally informed that the pretended army amounted to three merchants that would not pay a tribute to the custom-house.

A ringo, the general in favor of Bustamante has reached, without obstacle, the Papagayo. Alvarez, the partisan of Guerrero, at the head of his troops, was preparing to prevent his passage. Guerrero was at Espinosa, a village situated near Sierra Madre; that he had any troops with him has not yet been ascertained.

The bill relative to the prolongation of the liberty of introducing in Mexico cotton goods, the importation of which was prohibited by the law of the 22d May 1829, has been adopted by the Chamber of Deputies in Congress, at a session of the 14th of July last. The two first articles are thus conceived: Art. 1. A bank must be established for the encouragement of national industry with a capital of a million of dollars.

2. In order to create that capital they grant for a necessary time, the leave of introducing into the ports of the republic, such articles of cotton as were prohibited by the law of the 22d May of last year.

That law, whose importance for our merchants needs no explanation, being well known and having been deeply meditated, would not have been perhaps adopted by the Chamber of Deputies had not the favorable opinion of the Senate concerning that question been foreseen. It is therefore probable that this second branch of legislative power will not refuse to sanction it, and then we may consider it as being entirely adopted.

A gang chief and a partisan of Guerrero, named Lariol, who had been arrested near Corrijos, in the valley of Cuernavaca, having attempted to make his escape, while he crossed with those that led him a bog, was shot as a wolf by order of the chief of that escort. (a) The name of the barbarian who committed these ferocious acts is Onofre Diaz: let him be held in horror by all the Mexicans who have not deserted the laws of justice and humanity, and who have remained faithful to their baths. The present state of things cannot last: it is not in our age and in our happy climate that one can reign by terror.—The fact we have reported is published by the official journal of the Mexican government (el Registro), of the 9th of August. It is revolting to see in what cool manner he describes that deed, the mere translation of which has struck us with reluctance and indignation.

Vera-Cruz, August 11.

—Since the arrival of the American brig Hyperion, from Gibraltar to this port in 40 days passage, the news has been spread that the French troops had taken possession of Algiers, with a loss of 10,000 men. This event was related to the captain by two vessels he met on his way; but we will not be so credulous as to believe it, unless we learn it from a more direct source, for that success seems rather premature. (Censor.)

Norfolk, August 21.

ANOTHER REPORT OF THE CAPTURE OF ALGIERS.

Captain Bueren, of the schooner Wm. A. Koon, 11 days from St. Thomas, who went into the Bay River on Thursday night last, reported, that official accounts of the capture of Algiers by the French had been received there, previous to his departure, and that the report was generally believed to be true.

Baton Rouge, Sept. 4.
Some plantations in the parish of West Baton Rouge, have been damaged this week by gusts of wind which have overturned the sugar canes. We do not know of any person in this parish who has suffered from it.

Three companies of the troops stationed here, left this place yesterday for the Pine Woods, where a provisional encampment will be made until November, near John Bartoli's plantation, at Sandy Creek. One company remains to guard the Fort. Although the town at this time is quite healthy and very little sickness exists among the soldiers, Colonel Foster has thought it his duty to adopt this measure of safety, and more particularly so as most of the men of the detachment have lately arrived in Louisiana, and consequently are not acclimated.

Norfolk, August 21.

THE STORM.—By a gentleman arrived here yesterday from Elizabeth City, (N. C.) we learn, that the storm, on Tuesday last, was terribly severe in that quarter; that much damage was done by the high water to bridges and roads, and that great quantities of lumber were floated and driven off; that the corn crops on the fine lands in Pasquotank and Perquimans counties have been twisted off and prostrated by this hurricane; that not even half a crop is expected to be saved, and that a great scarcity of that staff of life must be the consequence.

The rain fell in torrents, filling up all the creeks, branches and swamps; and the Dismal Swamp Canal, that most stupendous and useful improvement, which had been greatly reduced by the long continued drought, was filled in one day.

A Swedish ship which left Algiers on the 31st of May, arrived at Alicante with intelligence that the Consuls of foreign nations had been shut up in a fortress, by order of the Dey, and that they had in vain been claimed by an English corvette; that 110 men of the crews of the Silene and L'Aventure brig were confined in the Bagnio; and that those who, by the report of M. d'Assigne, had been supposed to be massacred, safely arrived at Algiers.

The New-York Gazette of the 15th of August says:—"A person of the name of Grafton, representing himself as carrying on mercantile business in this city, absconded on Thursday last, having imposed upon our merchants to the tune of about $40,000.—He had purchased goods to various amounts from a great number of individuals, and, as appeared, shipped his commodities immediately to Philadelphia, where, it is suspected, he has an accomplice. Several messengers were despatched after him, by the Southern mail of Saturday last with what success we have been unable to ascertain." Whether Grafton is in this city or not we cannot tell. It has not yet been taken. But a large quantity of the goods, procured at New York, has either been taken by replevin, or secured by attachment; part in the hands of Commission Merchants and auctioneers, and part in the Custom House.—In one of the attachments, the Garnishees—a house, we understand, established in Front street within a few months—chose to go to prison rather than give the bail required. Several pipes of wine and brandy have been attached at the Custom House.

New-York, Aug. 19.

From Brazil and La Plata.—By the ship Ferrato and the brig Lady Adams, which arrived at Baltimore on Monday morning last from Rio de Janeiro in the short passage of thirty-six days, the Baltimore American has received advices to the 7th of July, thirty three days later than the previous accounts. We have been favored with a slip from the office of that paper, dated the 17th, & P. M. from which we gather the following items of political and commercial news. An extract of a letter from Rio de Janeiro of the 5th of July, mentions that "there had been no late arrivals from around the Horn, and none of consequence from the Place. At the latter place a report was in circulation that an engagement had been fought in the Banda Oriental, near Monte Video, between Gen. Lavalleja, the present Governor of Monte Video, and Gen. Fructuoso Ribeiro, but the particulars are not fully known. The former holds possession of the citadel of Monte Video, where all was quiet, and the latter of the interior. At Buenos Ayres matters were all quiet, and the awful cloud of civil war had passed by." The dissensions in Monte Video alluded to in this quotation are thus spoken of in the Buenos Ayres "Packet" of May 29th.

MONTVIDEO.—At the moment of writing this, we have no later dates from Montevideo than the 25th, and newspapers to the 32nd. It is confirmed that a skirmish has taken place between a party of the Government troops, under the command of Don Manuel Lavalleja, brother to the Governor, and those of the country.

The Commandant Lavalleja has arrived at Montevideo, and to his serious wounds. The country party has forwarded communication to General Rivera, at Commandant General of the country districts, expressing anxiety to preserve the public peace, and to avoid civil war. A proposition, it is added, has been made to form a senate from the country party, to be named by the existing senate.

It was reported that a party of Gen. Rivera's troops was going against Maldonado, and that they had taken prisoner an officer of General Lavalleja's (Santana) who had been recruiting in the country.

The "Packet of the 8th of June states that the price of specie was on the decline. The Buenos Ayres was still on his tour of inspection in the country.

According to the last advices from Montevideo, Don Manuel Lavalleja, (brother of the Governor) had been taken prisoner by Ribeiro's troops in the skirmish at Ponsoder. The Governor himself intended to march from Montevideo on the 1st June, at the head of the regiment of Cazadores.

Notwithstanding these hostile appearances, it was still thought by many persons in Montevideo, that an open and decided war between the two parties would be avoided.

The following extract of a letter from an American gentleman in Paris to a person in this city, dated Paris, June 8, 1830, has been handed to us by a political opotuch for publication.—U. S. Telegraph.

I regret to learn that some person has been so wanting in candor and justice, as to have written and published the American papers, a letter to the prejudice of Mr. Rives, our Minister to this city.

I have not seen the article to which I allude, but I understand it accuses him of want of attention to his countrymen, and a disposition to keep himself aloof from them, than which nothing can be more untrue. Mr. and Mrs. Rives arrived here under every possible disadvantage. They had not, I believe, a single personal acquaintance in Paris the localities of the city were unknown to them. It was unnecessary for them immediately to fit up an establishment, which was to be done through the medium of a language with which they were not familiar, in doing which great care was required to avoid imposition.

At the same time they were received numerous visits, not only from our own countrymen but also from the diplomatic corps, and distinguished strangers. Mrs. Rives, who is an American mother, has been frequently called upon to give her personal attention to her children, who have had several attacks of severe illness. In addition to this she has given birth to a son within the last few months.

Mr. Rives was expected by the Government and country to enter immediately on important negotiations, which required much consideration and study. Amidst these multiplied difficulties and calls upon their time and attention, it is very probable some letters of introduction may have been overlooked, and that the individuals recommended may have felt as if they had just ground of complaint. So far from Mr. Rives being unpopular among his countrymen I will venture to assert, that the favorable impressions of his private character have in every instance been confirmed by personal acquaintance. In this public capacity, it is believed, that he has long as much (to say at least) towards the accomplishment of the object of his predecessors since the restoration of the reigning family. Notwithstanding the embarrassing circumstances above alluded to, the new Minister and his lady have been indefeasible in their personal attention, and have given several very handsome entertainments. I can say with confidence, that they both possess the undivided esteem of all our countrymen to whom they are known."

A singular scene took place in the legislature of Rhode-Island, on Saturday, [July 3.] At the last session, Mr. E. R. Potter took advantage of his privilege as a member, to abuse Mr. Hallett, the editor of the Providence Daily Advertiser, who was present reporting the proceedings. At the session last week Mr. Potter continued his attacks in a gross and violent manner, whereupon the House allowed the reporter to reply on the spot.

Sea Serpents.—Much as people may ridicule the idea of the existence of some huge monster of the deep resembling a mighty serpent, we have no more doubt of the fact, than of any other well attested fact in natural history. On Friday last, the monster was again seen off Nantucket, by a very respectable gentleman of Boston, who has given a minute description of him, not materially differing from those long since and frequently published. He passed several times to and fro, near the beach, in presence of the gentleman referred to, and several other spectators. He had no bunches, though the undu-lated motion of the body gave the appearance of a snake. His head was erect, his motions were perceptible to the naked eye. He was probably taking a "nooning" after a hearty breakfast of mackerel. It is now thought by many that it was the Sea Serpent, and not a shark, which took Capt. Blaney from his boat a few weeks since.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Kean recently performed Richard the Third on the London boards. The performance is said to have been his best manner. When the curtain fell he came forth at the call of the audience and spoke as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I am most certain that you are not acquainted with the exhaustion attendant upon playing Richard III., or you would never demand of me this new exertion.—I fully comprehend the sentiment; it is lastingly engraven on my heart:—But ladies and gentlemen, allow me to say, after an actor has played such a part as Richard III., the best thing he can do, and the best thing an audience can let him do, is to go to bed!"

How far the public should concern themselves about the morals of players, is a question of no great importance; yet it becomes a subject of newspaper discussion whenever one of the ladies or gentlemen of the English stage—and this happens not very seldom—commits any flagrant impropriety. We see no difficulty in the case. When a player comes from England to this country, it is not right to pry into his private habits, nor to listen to the tale-tattle scattered about by some of those who take pleasure in picking up what comes from the green room. But no man, or woman either, whose vices have become notorious abroad—whose scandalous conduct has afforded matter for whole columns in the London journals—should meet encouragement from us. When Kean was last here, though curiosity attracted the men, few ladies went to see him. If Lady William Lennox and her Robin des Bois should find London and Dublin too hot to hold them, and decide on a trip across the Atlantic—of which there is some talk—no respectable manager, we think would engage them.
