THE COMPROMISE.
WHIG PLATFORM.

The series of acts of the 31st Congress, ordinarily known as the COMPROMISE as set forth in the Whigs of the United States, in a solid settlement, in principle and substance, of the questions to which they relate, and as far as respects the future, we will maintain the same, and all faster on their strict enforcement, until time and experience shall demonstrate the necessity of further legislation to guard against the evils arising from the system of labor, and the absence of power on the other—not impairing them—except efficiency to carry out the requirements of the constitution, and we deprecate all further agitation of the questions thus settled, as dangerous to the peace, and will discountenance all efforts to reopen or renew such agitation whenever, wherever, or however made; and we will maintain the inviolability of the Whig party, and the integrity of the Whig platform.

THE CONTRACT

Speech of General Pierce before the Abbeville Democracy.

Speech of Hon. Jefferson Davis at Manchester [illegible] on the 1st January, 1852.

of Northern Mail failed yesterday from [illegible] Charleston. That due the day before [illegible] through Extravagance of the Administration.

One of the staple themes of boasting of the [illegible] is the boundless extravagance of the Administration of Millard Fillmore. Messrs. Pierce & Co. [illegible] assume that at the end of the [illegible] session [illegible] will exceed [illegible] of Mr. Fillmore's administration by a very considerable sum, and taken [illegible] to prove that it [illegible] reprehensible to bankrupt and [illegible] the bankruptcy of Mr. Buchanan's, the Intelligencer says: "Upon every other question [illegible] which the country in the last twenty years, [illegible] cause [illegible] has [illegible] united, associated and [illegible] with the bankers."

The Secretary at [illegible] Washington Republic [illegible] to this. This is one of the confusions of that journal, which it is exceedingly [illegible] to Washington. Here is a [illegible] Whig. He is supported by the Courier & Enquirer, the Express, the Mirror, the Commercial Advertiser and all the National Whig papers in that city. He will be sustained and will, we doubt not, beat the infamous [illegible] Hetwood, Van Buren, Preston [illegible] Price & Co.

MAINE.

The Maine election acts upon our neighbors [illegible] like a shower bath on a person accustomed to cold water. The Courier calls it the shock, but nothing is more healthy, [illegible] it is decidedly comfortable and pleasant. We do not grudge our neighbor a particle of such comfort. Last year the Democratic majority for Governor was elected by a considerable majority—this year he has made himself a majority of four thousand. Last year the Democrats elected two members of Congress out of [illegible] this year, they have at least three out of [illegible] more. Last year the Democrats had an immense majority in the Senate, although the returns for the House were incomplete, they look favorable. In fine, the signs have been for better in Maine, than they [illegible] since 1840, and there made a most substantial gain. If the Courier is troubled with this result, as we are, and so are [illegible] we have only to say—that there has been [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] and [illegible] Democrats have made a fair election of running the State, and [illegible] to the Whig party, and the integrity of the Union.
