AIDED THE BRITISH.

President of 24 Years Ago Resigned
by Taking of Taku Forts.

Discontent with British policy led to resignation of President of the Formosa Republic.

The recent signing of the Convention of 1913 by the Chinese Republic and the British Government, which permitted the British to build a naval base in Taku, was followed by a decision of the Formosa Republic to resign.

President T. Y. Yang, who was appointed by the British Government to the position of President, resigned his post on the grounds that the Convention was against the interests of the Republic.

The move has been hailed by the Chinese as a victory for the Republic and a blow to the British interests in the East.
