In addition to the above, there have the grounds of it, as to state, that the court disclaims jurisdiction of the case, on the ground that the Cherokee nation is not a foreign nation, of newfledged wings fluttered across our mind's court, are not sovereigns, independent of the sovereignty of the United States, but domestic dependent nations, in a state of "pupilage" to the United States, or in a relation corresponding ed. For one thing we have to thank the Debutant: The supreme court, therefore, cannot take cognizance of cases to which it is sought to make them parties as nations. With respect to the rights of the Cherokees, however, as individuals, to the lands guarantied to them, it was pretty distinctly intimated, in the opinion of the court that there is a mode by which they may be brought before the supreme court for adjudica-
