

==“Fredrik Logevall”==

“Fredrik Logevall” is a Swedish-American historian and educator at Cornell University, specializing in U.S. foreign policy and the Vietnam Wars. He is also the director of Cornell’s Mario Einaudi Center for International Studies.

===Biography===

Fredrik Logevall was born in Stockholm, Sweden in 1963, and lived thereafter in Västerås. He emigrated with his family to Vancouver, Canada as a youth and graduated with a BA in political science from Simon Fraser University. Thereafter he earned an MA in History from the University of Oregon and a PhD in US foreign relations history from Yale University in 1993. He then taught for eleven years at University of California, Santa Barbara, where he co-founded (with Tsuyoshi Hasegawa) the UCSB Center for Cold War Studies. In 2004 he moved to Cornell University as Professor of History. In 2006-07 Logevall was Leverhulme Visiting Professor of History at University of Nottingham and Mellon Senior Research Fellow at the University of Cambridge. In 2010 he became director of the Mario Einaudi Center for International Studies at Cornell and the John S. Knight Professor of International Studies. [1]

===Selected works===

“Embers of War: The Fall of an Empire and the Making of America's Vietnam” (Random House, 2012).

“A People and A Nation: A History of the United States”, 9th ed. (co-authored, with Mary Beth Norton et al; Cengage, 2011).

“America's Cold War: The Politics of Insecurity” (co-authored with Campbell Craig; Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, 2009; paperback February 2012).

“Nixon in the World: American Foreign Relations, 1969-1977” (co-edited, with Andrew Preston; Oxford University Press, 2008).

“The First Vietnam War: Colonial and Cold War Crisis” (co-edited, with Mark A. Lawrence; Harvard University Press, 2007).

“Encyclopedia of American Foreign Policy: Studies in the Principal Movements and Ideas”, revised ed. (co-edited, with Alexander DeConde and Richard Dean Burns; Scribners, 2002).

“Terrorism and 9/11: A Reader” (edited; Houghton Mifflin, 2002).

“The Origins of the Vietnam War” (Longman, 2001).

“Choosing War: The Lost Chance for Peace and the Escalation of War in Vietnam” (University of California Press, 1999; paperback March 2001).

===External links===

<http://www.arts.cornell.edu/history/faculty-department-logevall.php>

<http://www.einaudi.cornell.edu/directors>

<http://hnn.us/roundup/entries/35821.html>

<http://www.randomhouse.com/book/103225/embers-of-war-by-fredrik-logevall#praise>

<http://www.history.ucsb.edu/projects/ccws/>

===References===

[1] <http://www.arts.cornell.edu/history/faculty-department-logevall.php>