CHARLES DUFOUR, 11 Conti st.

Thursday morning, June 18, 1846.

The Webster and Ingersoll Affair.

We have at length the report of the Committee appointed to investigate the charges preferred by the unmaculate CHARLES JARED INGERSOLL, against the fair fame and reputation of DANIEL WEBSTER. The investigation has terminated as every body knew it would. Mr. INGERSOLL, after all his surreptitious scrutiny into secret documents, his back-stairs consultations, and his mousing, prying and sneaking search into holes and corners to gather the scum and lees of the dirty slanders of official hirelings, has succeeded only in rendering himself notorious for the malignity that instigated the charges and the utter impotence and futility of his assault. Mr. BENTON, when castigating CASS and ALEXN, and few days since, observed: "mountain that brought forth a mouse, be thy name here after 54 40." We would suggest to "Old Bullion" that the most perfect muscipular abortion extant is Mr. C. J. INGERSOLL, and that the cognomen of that PAUL PRY among official understrappers and confidential records, should hereafter be applied to all infinitesimal products of parturient spite and malice.

The report submitted to the House of Representatives, is an interesting and lucid document. It states that the attention of the committee was first directed to the charge that Mr. WEBSTER had used the secret service fund, without the knowledge of the President, and contrary to usage. Upon this point the report is explicit and satisfactory. It is shown first, that the secret service fund is committed to the keeping of the President, who may disburse it from his own hands, or through his agents; second, that the absolutely invariable custom has been for the Presidents to entrust the employment of this fund to his Secretary of State, as the peculiar and confidential adviser of the Executive; third, that the testimony of Mr. TYLER proves that while President, that gentleman confided to Mr. WEBSTER the disbursement of the money, and lastly, that Mr. WEBSTER employed as much of the funds as was deemed necessary, and returned the balance to Mr. STUBBS, the disbursing agent.

The second charge by Mr. INGERSOLL accuses Mr WEBSTER of using the public money to corrupt the party press. The report fully exculpates Mr WEBSTER from the charge. The committee say they do not deem it expedient to go into a minute history of the matter, but will content themselves with simply remarking that the testimony they have taken removes every foundation for a belief or even a suspicion that the public money was used or attempted to be used to corrupt the party presses.

The third and last charge is that when Mr. WEBSTER went out of office, he was a public defaulter.—Upon this charge the report is equally clear and intelligible. When Mr. W. retired from office, there was an apparent balance in his hands, of money entrusted to him, to the amount of $2290. Some delay was occasioned in the settlement of Mr. W's accounts, in consequence of his having lost or mislaid or not procured the proper vouchers showing what use had been made of the money. In the January of 1844, Mr. W. proposed to pay the apparent balance against him, with the understanding that the Government should refund it to him, if he subsequently procured the evidence of his payment. This was acceded to, and in November of the same year, Mr W. exhibited a voucher for $200, and paid in cash $2,090. The next winter he presented vouchers for payments made by him while in office and not before credited to him, to the amount of $1,050, which the President directed to be refunded, and that amount was then paid to him.

The report concludes with the following ample testimonial in favor of Mr. WEBSTER

The committee deem any comments on the above facts connected with this charge unnecessary. In their opinion there is no ground whatever, for sustaining charges to impeach Mr. Webster's integrity or the purity of his motives in the discharge of the duties of his office. The value of this opinion is perhaps to some extent enhanced by the fact that, in their investigation, the committee, in observance of the usage in similar cases, have taken the testimony without notice to him, in his absence, without communication with him, or explanation from him. In conclusion they beg permission to remark that their investigation has brought out facts (which are embodied in the testimony) connected with the foreign relations of the country, the disclosure of which public policy would seem to forbid. On this account they have thought proper to confer with the President of the United States in this view so fully and strongly enforced by him in his message at the present session, in answer to a resolution of the House requesting a communication to it of the same facts that are embodied in the testimony taken by the committee, and which for reasons then assigned, he declined to communicate or make public, except with a view to an impeachment, and to furnish the proof necessary to attain the great ends of public justice. He expressed the opinion that, even in that case, the House should adopt all wise precautions to prevent the unnecessary exposure of matters the publication of which might injuriously affect the public interest. No dissent from the views of that message was expressed by the House. The committee, therefore, think that these facts were laid open to them, with an implied understanding, both on the part of the President and of the House, that they would be made public only in the event of an impeachment; and of their being necessary for bringing to justice great public delinquents. Inasmuch, therefore, as no evidence has been exhibited to the committee, which can lay any foundation for an impeachment, all the reasons which induced the President to decline to make these facts public in the call of the House, return in their full force against their disclosure now.

Congress.

In the SENATE on the 9th inst., Mr. TOMLINSON submitted a resolution instructing the Committee on Military Affairs to enquire into the expediency of exempting from arrest and seizure the persons and property of volunteers, for debt during their continuance in the military service of the United States.

The resolution submitted by Mr. YULEE, directing the Committee on Public Lands to enquire into the expediency of granting alternate sections of the public domain along all lines of contemplated railroads, &c in States wherein the public lands lie, was taken up for consideration and rejected.

The resolution in relation to the meeting of the Senate at 10 o'clock was postponed by a vote of 26 to 24.

After some further business the Senate proceeded to the discussion of the bill making appropriations for the Post Office Department, the question pending being an amendments of Mr. Niles, providing a special appropriation for the experiment and maintainance of a line of mail steamers between New York and Liverpool. After some considerable debate, the Senate adjourned without taking the question.

In the HOUSE, Mr. Vinton from the Select Committee raised to investigate certain charges preferred by Charles J. Ingersoll against Daniel Webster, submitted a report signed by every member, except one —Mr. Brinkerhoff. In another column will be found an abstract of this document. The following resolutions were appended to the report:

Resolved, That the testimony taken in this investigation be sealed up by the Clerk, under the supervision of the Committee, endorsed "confidential," and deposited in the archieves of the House, and that the same be not opened unless by its order.

Resolved, That this report be laid on the table and printed, and that the Select Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Mr. Brinkerhoff said that not being able to agree fully with the committee he presented his views in the shape of a minority report.

Mr. Seaburn Jones (L. I.) objected to Mr. Brinkerhoff's report, because it contained a letter from Mr. F. O. G. Smith, unaccompanied by testimony essential to its correct understanding. In the course of his remarks he spoke of Mr. Webster's conduct as altogether consistent "with the highest honor, patriotism and integrity, and said that this examination had convinced him that this government was pure, more upright, more straightforward in the application and entire management of its secret contingent fund than any other on the face of the earth. After some debate the reports were laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

The House then resumed the consideration of territorial business. The bill to direct the sale of the reserved mineral lands in Illinois, Arkansas, Wisconsin and Iowa was passed.

The bill to define the boundaries of the State of Iowa was likewise passed. It defines the northern boundary of Iowa on the parallel of 43. 30. Another bill to enable the people of Wiskonsin to form a State Constitution was adopted and passed.

The House then took up the message of the Senate disagreeing to the amendment of the House to the bill for the appointment of an additional number of Paymasters in the Army, and insisted upon the amendment.

The House adjourned, after a discussion of some other matter

HON. B. H. THIBODAUX.—We perceive that the Washington correspondent of the Evening Post has been figuring at the probable vote of the House on the proposed reduction of the Tariff. Among the ayes he claims the Representative from the Second District—Mr. THIBODAUX—who, it is said, is to be baited by a higher duty on molasses or rather cane syrup, which is now smuggled in as molasses, cutting down the actual duty on foreign sugar at least one and a half per cent. We feel persuaded that this calculation is founded. Mr. THIBODAUX is not to be caught by the support of Free Trade, by a special act to Louisiana. He is a Tariff man on principle.

U. S. SENATOR.—The Legislature of Mississippi is convened for a U. S. Senator, but nothing definitive. In Senate Gov. Anderson nominated Hamlin 3; Geo. Evans 3; Gen. Quitman 1; Gov. Tucker, 1; Gov. Poindexter 1; Gen. Thompson 1; Gen. Foster 1; Gen. Tucker, 1; and complete Confusion.

CHARLES DUFOUR, 11 Conti st.

City Intelligence.

FIRST MUNICIPALITY COUNCIL.—This Council met last night as per adjournment on Monday night.

Mr. Hagan, after reading a report from the Finance Committee, presented a resolution authorizing the Committee to negotiate loans for such amounts as might be deemed necessary to meet its current expenses, at a rate of interest which should not exceed 6 per cent. and on notes payable twelve months after date. The report and resolution were adopted by 6 ayes to 1 nay.

An offer was made by Mr. Lambert to lease the platform for one year, for $4,650. Laid on the table subject to call.

Mr. Correvilles, presented his resignation as member of the Council. Accepted.

A report from the Finance Committee reporting in favor of allowing Mr. Guirot, the sum of $3,000, for extra services performed by him as late Treasurer, was read and lost, by four ayes to three yeas.

Pursuant to a resolution offered by Mr. Hagan, Chairman of the Improvement Committee, for the widening, paving, &c. of several streets in the Municipality, the surveyor was authorized to advertise for sealed proposals for the work, the Council to take action on the resolution in November next.

The Council soon after adjourned till Monday next.

☞ We have been informed that Mr. C. Dufour, late District Attorney of this First Judicial District, yielding to public contingencies, has consented to continue in that capacity until the newly appointed District Attorney be installed into office. It becomes a part of his duty now to take the bonds of the Constables of the Parish of Orleans, and he is ready to do so at once.

INQUEST.—Coroner Spedden was called yesterday to hold an inquest on the body of a woman named Margaret Russell who was found dead in a house in Religious streets, near Felicity Road. Verdict "Died from blows received or a fall on the head." The head was a good deal bruised and there was excessive extervasation of blood on the brain.

ROBBERY.—John Daly was yesterday arrested, accused of robbing a woman of $14 at the Corner of St Philip and Burgundy streets. He will be examined before Recorder Genous this morning.

ATTEMPT AT SWINDLING.—John Burns was arrested, accused of trying to sell some wood at the New Basin which did not belong to him. He was on the point of closing the bargain and pocketing the ready, when it was discovered that he was not the owner, and he was arrested. Recorder Baldwin will examine the case this morning.

RECORDER BALDWIN'S COURT.—Bill Baxter, a sailor on board the ship Ozmard, who was arrested accused of stealing two sovereigns, two dollars in silver, and a gold ring from on board said ship, was yesterday examined before Recorder Baldwin. The evidence being insufficient he was discharged.

Wm. McLaughlin who was arrested for beating his wife, gave bail in $300 to keep the peace.

MYSTERIOUS.—We yesterday stated that a woman named Adams, a Nolan had been run over, in a cart, in St Peter street, inflicting a wound from the effects of which she died, after having been taken to the Hospital. From the verdict of the Cororer's Jury, it appears that the wound which was discovered on the buttock, had severed the ischiatic artery, and that she died from excessive hemorrhage. Suspicions are afloat that the deceased came to her death by unfair means, but as the police officers are busy in ferretting out the mystery, we trust that it will soon be brought to light.

GOLD is said to abound in Arkansas, along the Ouchita river.

Hon. JOHN YOUNG, of Livingston county, N. Y. formerly a member of Congress, lies dangerously ill at his residence

A SCREW LOOSE.—We received yesterday our exchanges due from all points on the Eastern route, except Baltimore.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—Thirteen companies of volunteers have offered their services to the Governor, and will be ready at a moment's warning.

THE TARIFF BILL was to be taken up in the House of Representatives on the 15th It is reported that a test vote has been taken on this subject in caucus, and that the result is that the protective features of the Tariff will not be altered.

DEPARTURE OF U. S. TROOPS.—The brig Mobile Captain Bulkley, left Charleston on the 11th for Point Isabel, having on board company B, 3d Artillery comprising 86 rank and file, under command of Captain Vinton

NAVAL APPOINTMENTS.—There are three vacancies in the navy caused by the death of commodore Elliott, Captain Percival and Renshaw. They have not yet been filled, though the crisis calls for the immediate promotion of secure and intelligent and meritorious officers.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—Mr. Archibald S. Clarke, of the Parish of Madison, accidentally shot himself a few days since while hunting, and expired in a short time He was a worthy and respectable man. formerly editor of the Port Gibson Correspondent

☞ The Charleston Mercury wittily and wickedly remarks "Major General Scott at this moment decidedly at a discount. General GAINES is "relieved" (the word is used by highwaymen to signify the operation of stripping a man against his will) of his command in the South West. General SCOTT is relieved from the command of the Army of Invasion. The former has disgusted the President by moving fast, and the latter by moving slow."

Congress.

The following paragraph is taken from last evening's Courier:

By letters from reliable authority at Washington we are led to believe that funds will be received here within a week or ten days, by the different departments to pay all debts contracted by authority of the War Departments, and that the delay which has taker place was wholly owing to the want of an appropriation by Congress, which the latter have empowered the Secretary of the Treasury to place funds at the disposition of the Secretary of War. The old appropriation by Congress had been exhausted and the next appropriation not made until very recently.

DESERTING A HUSBAND.—We have often heard of the husband deserting a wife, but on last Saturday a case in reverse occurred in this city, which was most heartless and cruel under the circumstances. A man about forty-eight years of age, named Lewis C. Mc Dowell, who is blind, had come on as far as Baltimore in company with his wife, on their way to Port Deposit, Md., where McDowell's relations reside. He had been living some time past in Richland county, Ohio and becoming blind and in reduced circumstances had started to return to his friends, but his funds gave out when he arrived here, and while in the Marsi market obtaining something to eat, his wife from some cause or other deserted him, and left him alone blind and incapable of assisting himself as he was. In that situation he was sent to the Police Office to be conveyed to the Alms House, but on his protesting and begging not be sent there, but to his friends in Port Deposit, officer Moon obtained a free passage for him on the Railroad, and raised a small purse among some liberal disposed persons for his use. No information whatever could be obtained in regard to the heartless wife, nor can any cause be assigned for her strange conduct.—Baltimore Clipper, 8th

FEROCIOUS ATTACK BY A PANTHER.—Mr. William W. Rice of this Parish, has given an account of a singular occurrence which took place on the plantation of his father, Mr. John Rice, Bayou Salé, on the night of the 4th instant. At about nine o'clock, a negro man named Isaac, a valuable mechanic, belonging to Mr. Henry C. Knight of Franklin, was standing near a cabin in the negro quarters, when a large panther came up to within a few paces of him. It was a moonlight night, and he could see the panther crouched ready to spring upon him. He instantly commenced retreating towards where a number of negroes were collected, with his eyes on the animal. The latter, however, not at all daunted, pursued article on this subject that we would commend to the attention of shipping merchants. In 1839 the English parliament organized a commission to examine into the causes of damages by lightning to the vessels belonging to the British navy. This committee made a very elaborate report, in the conclusion of which they say,—"No instance, so far as we are aware of, has ever occurred of a ship sustaining injury when struck by lightning, if the conductor was up to the mast head, and the continuity uninterrupted by the water." The ships of the British navy are now invariably furnished with conductors, and also those of the U. States.—In a letter from the Secretary of the Navy at Washington, dated August 2d, 1843, it is stated that "none of our ships have been injured by lightning if the conductors were up." Mr. Merriam, the writer of the article in Hunt's Magazine, has kept a record of lightning storms for a number of years, and of the damage done by lightning, and of the destruction of life and property. His record now numbers more than five hundred cases of loss of life, property, &c., but "I have," he says, "never yet found a case of injury to a human being in a vessel or building protected by any kind of metallic conductor, reared for the purpose of protection."

The Alexandria Gazette says:—

"We must now contradict a contradiction. The marble mantle piece at Mount Vernon was not accidentally broken by a servant, nor has the piece broken off been lost. It was injured by some person unknown, and the fragments carried off, and has not since been returned or heard from. This shameful mutilation, will, probably, now only be known to the perpetrator, who will have to brag the possession secrets to his wife, cousin, and hide the relic in his own private drawer."

Whereupon the United States Gazette appropriately fulminates the following anathema against the depredator:—

May the relic be in the bosom of the contemptible thief, what the fox was to the Spartan boy. May it tear the figures in "Washington's house," and stealing the figures in "Washington's house," and stealing the figures in "Washington's house!!! Burglary, robbery, theft, misdemeanor, have each their appropriate signification, but there is a word wanting to designate the crime that the thief of mount Ida, must forever bear in Washington. No matter: if he should not be found out, one of these days he will be found out, and then the world will know him, like that of Benedict, will give a designation to a crime which can scarcely be repeated.

☞ A CAT was killed a few days ago in the Parish of Rapides, which exhibited every appearance of the Feline species, which exhibited every appearance of the Feline species, but which had the head of a rabbit, and was provided with long ears. It was killed by Ephraim Hall.

EXPENSES OF THE WAR.—The Washington Correspondent of the Charleston Courier has the following:—
