The New Orleans Bee.

NO. 109 CHARTRES STREET. NEW ORLEANS, FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 12, 1855. [Vol. XVI.—NEW SERIES. [No. 248.—Whole No. 7048

THE DAILY BEE.

Friday Morning, October 12th, 1855.

☞ The office of the "Bee" is removed to No. 109 Chartres street, between Conti and St. Louis.

The Northern Mail came through yesterday in the usual time.

A SMALL MISTAKE.

We noticed a few days ago the fact that Mr. Soulé, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, was not allowed by the Catholic portion of the State ticket, which the Catholic voters were disposed to support, inconsistency. To this, our [illegible] Courier, on Tuesday last, made the following reply:

Assuming the Bee grumbled about Mr. Soulé going into the North of the State, as he has already given the Know Nothings an opportunity to [illegible] questions now at issue [illegible] Soulé, at three or four different points, did not Preston reply to him, [illegible] of some of the many [illegible] were informed of his appointments? Why was there no reply in Re[illegible] to Natchitoches? The Bee is [illegible] by its epistolary friends, [illegible] to be on the wrong leg. It [illegible] Nothing candidate for Governor [illegible] to go into the North, where [illegible] spirit prevails among the Know Nothings.

[illegible] a time exemplication [illegible] and curiously illustrative manner in which truth is [illegible] and partly suppressed—[illegible] as a shield serving the purpose very well, while that which is concealed [illegible] known, utterly [illegible] the balance. As we [illegible] of the facts of Mr. [illegible] Soulé, we shall state [illegible] observation whatever.

Mr. McKEE and Messrs. [illegible] repaired to the parish [illegible] established their own [illegible] The American [illegible] that one represented by a [illegible] Mr. Preston, and this [illegible] proposition of his opponents, [illegible] a discussion single-[illegible] respectfully declined [illegible] the affair. This course [illegible] by his political friends, [illegible] Americans is regarded [illegible] their own ad-

[illegible] to reply in Rapides? Our answer is that the [illegible] was not at every appointment [illegible] and an-wered [illegible] offhand and disappointing [illegible] Texada, Dreux, [illegible] Where did our neighbors Messrs. Morton &c., were [illegible] unanswered in Rapides? [illegible] that journal should [illegible]

[illegible] egregiously mistaken in regard to Natchitoches. [illegible] speakers were answered par excellence when the "Creole [illegible] to attend a barbecue [illegible] down the town, he declined, as was too pressing, [illegible] o'clock at home. A friend [illegible] at that meeting, which [illegible] Mr. Morris, informs us [illegible] Catholics present on [illegible] Perhaps this may account [illegible] sudden pressure of business [illegible] absenting the American [illegible] in such a crowd.

[illegible] have all been Mr. Lewis, the American candidate [illegible] Governor, in company [illegible] Mr. Lewis, our candidate [illegible] to even to this day [illegible] addressing the people in that [illegible] The "Creole pony" [illegible] to take care of themselves [illegible] and, abandoning [illegible] canvass to his friend [illegible] returned to instruct [illegible] prairie home; to preach [illegible] for immediate confusion [illegible] anathemas and calumnies [illegible] platform and our nomi-

[illegible] may question our sincerity [illegible] of misrepresenting [illegible] spirit of our assertion [illegible] was raised to in Rapides [illegible] the bosom of the Louisians [illegible] at Alexandria, and [illegible] of the Natchitoches [illegible] by Col. LEVY, one [illegible] American orators. Mr. Morris [illegible] in Carrone, Bossier [illegible] Winn, Caddo or De Soto, nor Mark the prediction! Mr. Morris [illegible] the string, and is capering forth but one tune, viz: [illegible] of the American [illegible] and frivolous pretext [illegible] Catholics. This [illegible] in the ears of [illegible], so he keeps himself [illegible] those regions where [illegible] scarcely any produce some

[illegible] of the anti-American pa[illegible] a favor two ago, of the cheering [illegible] it received from St. James Per[illegible] parish was carried, for we have [illegible] as stated, that St. James will, in [illegible], be the banner parish of the [illegible] majority, in proportion to her vote, [illegible] majority for the American candi[illegible] There are 550 voters in St. James [illegible] democracy will be [illegible]

[illegible] Speaker of the House of Re[illegible]

[illegible] PIERCE RENOMINATED.—The [illegible] of Salem, Mass., assembled on the [illegible] appointed delegates to the State Con[illegible] passed a resolution unanimously [illegible] supporting President Pierce for [illegible] term.

[illegible] A terrific explosion took place on the [illegible] at Minerva, in the mines of Gideon [illegible] Wolf Creek. It is reported that five [illegible] were killed, and many more wounded. [illegible] have not yet been received.

[illegible] Vote of Whigs opposed to fusion [illegible] ment of the 4th, in New York, [illegible] George Wood, Esq., [illegible] Whig, as was agreed upon strongly [illegible] the Democratic Whigs of that [illegible] in favor of fusion with the sectional or [illegible] Republican party. A pream[illegible] and resolutions to the same effect, and [illegible] a Whig State Convention, to meet in that [illegible] at Albany, were also passed.

[illegible] The President has appointed George [illegible] of Virginia, Chief Justice of the [illegible] States Circuit Court for the District of [illegible] to fill the vacancy caused by the [illegible] Judge Cranch. Judge Hopkins is now a [illegible] Virginia, and formerly was a member [illegible] Congress and Charge to Portugal under [illegible] Polk's administration.

[illegible] Full returns from 73 counties [illegible] majority for Johnson. Nearly the [illegible] Democratic gain is confined to the 73 [illegible] districts, which were canvassed by [illegible] at Whig meeting on. There are [illegible] not yet to be heard from.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The American State Convention of Massachusetts assembled on the 31 ult. at Worcester, and unanimously re-nominated [illegible] Gardner for election.

DEATH OF THE HON. ARCHIBALD STUART.—The Richmond Va.) Intelligencer announces the death of this gentleman, at his residence in Paris, in Kentucky, on the 15 h of September, of disease of the heart. He served the people as Representative in Congress and in the State Legislature, and was one of the few men who were members of the State convention of 1829 and 1830, and also of that of 1850 and 1851.

THE KANSAS ELECTION.—A despatch from St. Louis says:

We have Kansas dates to the 3d instant. Returns from three counties show a heavy vote for Whitfield, pro-slavery, for Congress. The Missourians had gone and supported the pro-slavery ticket. The entire vote of Johnson county was given for Whitfield. In Leavenworth county, Whitfield had 300 and Reeder 200. At Wyandotte Springs 100 votes were polled, all for pro-slavery candidates. Governor Shannon voted the pro-slavery ticket. There was no fighting on election at the polls, the Free-soilers generally not voting.

Capt. Heath was not killed, as before reported.

EUROPEAN AFFAIRS.

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC.

One Week Later.

Little News from the Crimea.

Gen. Simpson's Report of the Assault.

RETREAT OF RUSSIANS CONTRADICTED.

The dates by the Pacific are to the 22d ult.—We subjoin an interesting summary of the news:

THE WAR.

During the past week public expectation has been on tiptoe for the arrival of the English and French commanders' detailed accounts of the grand attack on Sebastopol, and of the defeat and retirement of the Russians from the Southern side of Sebastopol. Though the telegraph to the Crimea has been daily for ordinary purposes, the despatches of Gen. Simpson were sent from Balaklava on the 11th by a steamer, which did not arrive at Marseilles until Thursday last (the 20 h). From Marseilles, Col. Cornwallis, who had charge of the despatches, proceeded by express to Paris, and thence to London, where the despatches were received at the War office early this morning.

Marshal Pelissier's despatches were not ready to be forwarded by the steamer.

The usual correspondence from the Crimea is to noon on the 8th September, immediately before the final and English columns rushed to the assault.

There are telegraphs from the Crimea to the 18th. The most interesting is that from Marshal Pelissier, who states that 4000 pieces of Russian cannon, 50,000 cannon balls, and large quantities of powder have been found at Sebastopol, with other military stores in proportion, and that the magnificent docks built by Upton, at a cost of between ten and twelve millions to the Russian government, are very little injured.

Prince Gortschakoff reports on the 17th that "there is nothing new in the Crimea."

On the 18th Marshal Pelissier telegraphs that the Generals and superior officers wounded are doing as well as can be expected, and that there need be no anxiety on their account.

The Morning Post (Ministerial paper) states that, from the best information it possesses, Prince Gortschakoff, in the Crimea, will soon be destitute of provisions. The Post also believes that the Allies are fully capable of attacking and defeating General Liprandi's forces on the Tchernaya.

Stores, &c., Captured

Pelissier (now a Marshal) telegraphing from Sebastopol on the 17th September, says:

"The enemy have not destroyed their docks, the neighboring establishments, the barracks, Fort Nicholas or Fort Quarantine. A first general survey of the materials left has given the following results: four thousand guns, fifty thousand balls, a fair bomb proj ctiles, a large quantity of powder (notwithstanding all the explosions which have taken place); five hundred and fifty pieces in separate conditions, twenty five thousand kilogrammes of copper, two steam engines of thirty horse power, and a considerable quantity of sawed timber for defense works."

RUSSIAN DESPATCHES.

The Emperor's Address to the Army.

In an order of the day to the army, communicating the fall of Sebastopol, his Majesty thanks the neighboring establishments, the barracks, Fort Nicholas or Fort Quarantine. A first general survey of the materials left has given the following results: four thousand guns, fifty thousand balls, a fair bomb proj ctiles, a large quantity of powder (notwithstanding all the explosions which have taken place); five hundred and fifty pieces in separate conditions, twenty five thousand kilogrammes of copper, two steam engines of thirty horse power, and a considerable quantity of sawed timber for defense works."

RUSSIAN DESPATCHES.

The Emperor's Address to the Army.

In an order of the day to the army, communicating the fall of Sebastopol, his Majesty thanks the garrison for its heroic conduct during the grand attack on Sebastopol, and of the defeat and retirement of the Russians from the Southern side of Sebastopol. Though the telegraph to the Crimea is usually for ordinary purposes, the despatches of Gen. Simpson were sent from Balaklava on the 11th by a steamer, which did not arrive at Marseilles until Thursday last (the 20 h). From Marseilles, Col. Cornwallis, who had charge of the despatches, proceeded by express to Paris, and thence to London, where the despatches were received at the War office early this morning.

Marshal Pelissier's despatches were not ready to be forwarded by the steamer.

The usual correspondence from the Crimea is to noon on the 8th September, immediately before the final and English columns rushed to the assault.

There are telegraphs from the Crimea to the 18th. The most interesting is that from Marshal Pelissier, who states that 4000 pieces of Russian cannon, 50,000 cannon balls, and large quantities of powder have been found at Sebastopol, with other military stores in proportion, and that the magnificent docks built by Upton, at a cost of between ten and twelve millions to the Russian government, are very little injured.

Prince Gortschakoff reports on the 17th that "there is nothing new in the Crimea."

On the 18th Marshal Pelissier telegraphs that the Generals and superior officers wounded are doing as well as can be expected, and that there need be no anxiety on their account.

The Morning Post (Ministerial paper) states that, from the best information it possesses, Prince Gortschakoff, in the Crimea, will soon be destitute of provisions. The Post also believes that the Allies are fully capable of attacking and defeating General Liprandi's forces on the Tchernaya.

Stores, &c., Captured

Pelissier (now a Marshal) telegraphing from Sebastopol on the 17th September, says:

"The enemy have not destroyed their docks,