…RESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY,

OF KENTUCKY.

Subject to the decision of a National Convention.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

New York, August 17th, 1839.

By the Sheridan, arrived this morning from Liverpool, we have received London dates of the 13th and Liverpool of the 15th. The evening papers of this day will give you details. In the meantime, it may be proper to remark, that the cotton market is rather firmer and more active; the demand having improved, but the prices remaining the same. The dates are two days later than those received by the ship Oneco, via Boston.

The impression here is, that the British money market has improved; and this impression is derived, not from private letters. I give you the opinions …t on my own fact. I cannot perceive any …such improvement. I wish I could. Yet …s and we shall hear something more deci… the steam ship Liverpool, now due, having … days.

I fear …I hope I may be mistaken, for my opin on is …ged, that on this event depends the state of our …ercial affairs.

GALE IN NEW YORK

…A severe gale of wind and rain was felt in New York …on which did considerable damage to the shipping in the harbor. The two slave ships Eagle and Wyoming dragged their anchors, and went ashore at Staten Island. The former is supposed to have bilged. The brig Texas, from Charleston, went ashore. Other vessels sustained more or less injury. A house was blown down on … street. Fortunately several persons had left the … just before it fell.

…We have received, last night, by the ex… …ing Banker, our papers of Havana up to …. They contain nothing of impor…

…The steamboat Alton, captain Sellers, arrived from St. Louis last night, and brought us papers which contain no news. It is reported by some of the passengers that a tedious fever is raging in St. Louis, and that many persons have fallen victim to the disease.

It is also reported that an individual has offered to construct, opposite St. Louis a floating wharf for the sum of half a million of dollars. These reports, however, require confirmation.

…The steamboat Alton also reports that, when attempting to raise the steamboat Rienzi, the main deck … parted from the hull. She will therefore probably become a total loss.

TURKEY.

All the accounts that reach us from Constantinople agree in representing the Sultan's health to be in a very precarious state. His illness baffles the skill of the physicians employed more dangerous in consequence of his unwillingness to submit to the regimen prescribed by his physicians. Among other indulgences from which it has, according to some accounts, been impossible to induce him to refrain, is the somewhat free use of spirituous liquors. He had, according to the last accounts, been removed, for a change of air, to a kiosk on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, and, should his medical attendants succeed, in prevailing on him to adopt a more abstemious diet, there may yet be hopes of his recovery. The Sultan, himself, we have been assured, has already made arrangements in anticipation of his own decease, by appointing a regent to administer the government of the empire during the minority of the imperial prince, Sultan Abdul Medjid, who is now in his 17th year. It is extremely difficult to judge, what consequences are likely to attend the decease of the reigning sovereign of Turkey. He ascended the throne at 23 years of age, and during a disastrous reign of 31 years, he has seen province after province torn from his once magnificent empire, an empire which, in his declining years, has been preserved from total annihilation by nothing but the mutual jealousies of the great powers of Christendom. Egypt, Syria, Greece, Servia, Wallachia, Moldavia, together with a large extent of coast on the Asiatic shores of the Black Sea, have in turn been severed from the dominions of the Porte, and there is every probability, that, if the several European governments would refrain from interference, the affairs of Turkeya few weeks would see the victorious troops of a rebellious Pasha before the gates of Constantinople, where he would be hailed as a deliverer by nearly the whole of the Mehometan population.
