

REPUBLICAN REASON.

There are at least a dozen different reasons for the change of the Republican party in Louisiana. The main reason is the fact that the party has been divided into two factions, one of which is the more moderate and the other the more extreme. The moderate faction is the one that has been in power since the restoration of the Union, and it is this faction that has been the cause of the present change. The extreme faction is the one that has been in power since the restoration of the Union, and it is this faction that has been the cause of the present change.
