London, May 22.

Letters have been received from Gibralter, where the Majesty's ship 'Narcissus' has arrived, and which presents a view of the preparations at this place for a large attack. The preparations are of a formidable description, and the defences of the town have been completed. Only a few British troops are there, however, for the commandant in chief at this place is an American general. It was reported that the American troops were getting ready for the attack.

A cargo of timber from India, although delayed, is expected to arrive in the next few days. The weather is good, and the timber is expected to be in good condition.

A political storm is brewing in the British parliament.

Friday, May 24.

The news from the American front is that the British have recaptured Fort Ligonier from the Americans. The British have suffered some losses, but the American forces have been dispersed. The British are confident of success in the next few days.

The British are also reporting that they have captured a large number of American prisoners.

The British navy is preparing for a large naval battle in the next few days. The British fleet is led by Admiral Nelson, who is expected to lead the British ships to victory.

The British government is preparing to send a large number of troops to the American front to support the British forces.

The British army is preparing for a large offensive in the next few days. The British army is led by General Wellington, who is expected to lead the British army to victory.

The British government is preparing to send a large number of troops to the American front to support the British forces.

The British navy is preparing for a large naval battle in the next few days. The British fleet is led by Admiral Nelson, who is expected to lead the British ships to victory.

The British government is preparing to send a large number of troops to the American front to support the British forces.