FROM MEXICO.
By the schooner Monk, arrived here on Sunday, we have been informed that the Spanish troops after having landed at Cabo-Rojo, marched against Tampico; at a few leagues from there they met some Mexican troops on a small hill where they had placed 4 pieces of cannon. The Spaniards took possession of that place at the point of their bayonets; the Mexicans after having fired three or four times took flight leaving their guns &c. to the enemy; the loss of the Spaniards is calculated to the amount of 50 men, that of the Mexicans is unknown.
The Spaniards afterwards took Pueblo Viejo on the 2d, without any opposition and on the 7th they entered Tampico de las Tamaulipas.

Extract from the Log-Book of Schr. Monk.
August 4—At day-light made sail for the Bar. At 7, saw several vessels to an anchor; stood towards them. At 8 we discovered a ship of line, a frigate, and a hermaphrodite brig of war. At 9 was boarded by two of the line battle-ship launches, having each a lieutenant and 30 men, well armed. They ordered us to come to an anchor alongside of the commodore's ship, by his order and they informed us that they had landed their troops. In nearing the commodore's ship we saw some firing from the Mexican fort, shortly after we discovered the houses on shore actually in blaze of fire and heard an explosion of powder. After we came to an anchor within cable's length of the commodore's ship, captain Nartigue was taken on board with all his papers to be examined by the commodore, and was politely received, when he was ordered to remain at anchor until the cause should be decided, which was to take place with in two or three days. There were likewise detained the American brig Matilda and schr. Fanfan, of Baltimore.
August 5—At 6 o'clock A.M. saw nine launches from the line of battle ship going on shore to assist the troops which had actually taken possession of the bar and saw the Spanish color flying, when the commodore's ship manned the yard, fired a salute and gave three cheers.
6th August.—Capt. Nartigue went to town to see the consignees about receiving their goods who would not receive it on account of the unsettled state of the country.
August 12—The Spanish squadron, consisting of one ship of the line, one frigate, one full rigged brig and one hermaphrodite brig of war, together with two transports, sailed to the Eastward—destination unknown.
August 15—At 2 P. M. weighed anchor and made sail for Soto-la Marina.

MR. CLAY—This sterling patriot and great Orator of the West, seems to be carrying every thing before him in his favorite region. The good sense of the western people are returning, and it will not require four years to place the exiled patriot at the highest point of the affections of the people. No man was ever more wantonly and shamefully persecuted and misrepresented—and his ultimate irresistible triumph will be the more glorious. The friends of Republican Principles in the Great West may rest assured that New England will be with them in the next struggle.
N. H. Journal.

From the Journal of Commerce.
Latest from Buenos Ayres.—By the brig Soto, Capt. Richetson, we have received Buenos Ayres papers to the 10th June inclusive. The most important particulars which they contain will be found below. The city still held out against the invaders,—Rosas not choosing to hazard a violent entrance, but endeavoring to compel it to surrender by means of a siege. The city was in much want of provisions, and the government had passed a decree, under date of June 3d, authorising the meats which might be introduced from any of the ports of the Banda Oriental to be sold freely, without being subject to fixed prices.
On the 3d June a decree was issued by the government, revoking a decree of the 22d May, which declared the city and its environs to be en asamblea—under martial law. The reason assigned was, that the causes which induced the former decree, had ceased to operate.

An order was issued by the Government on the 23d May, suspending the publication of newspapers. It was rescinded after a few days.
Dr. Gregory Tagle left the city on the 5th June, for the camp of Gov. Rosas, (as was said,) who had addressed him a letter the day previous, inviting him to an interview. The Gaceta Mercantil of the 9th says, "Dr. Tagle returned last evening. Nothing has transpired relative to the object of his visit, nor the communications which it is supposed he has brought for the government, Gov. Lavalle was to arrive also to-day or to-morrow."

BUENOS AYRES, June 10.
One only subject occupies general attention, and it will be our duty to speak of it in preference to all others, though it is precisely that of which we are least able to speak.
The country requires peace; every body demands it, or will have a right to demand it, as soon as those who have arms in their hands manifest a disposition to lay them down. On this point we can only state the following, which we are aware will not fully satisfy our readers. People demand that they should be informed of the operations of this or that negotiator, his instructions, his interviews, and even his purposes; and what will be the final result of all these movements, the very mystery of which increases the public curiosity.
For ourselves we confess frankly, that we know no more of the matter than others. This is not for lack of interest or activity. We are as much interested as any one in the detail of this drama, which we witness with the most lively impatience. But to have immediate contact with its principal actors, we sometimes place ourselves behind the curtain, in order to see what is there preparing. Nevertheless, we make but little advance, except to aquire a conviction of what we already knew, or of what we had been inclined to doubt. There is no question that Gen. Lavalle is animated by the most generous sentiments. We have not the honor of an acquaintance, although we are authorized to declare in his name, that he will shrink from no personal sacrifice, however great, if by he can save his country from new misfortunes.

Of that this disinterestedness had more imitators. It is only by such a disposition that our dissensions can be terminated. Those who think to triumph over their adversaries, can only prolong these dissensions, for whatever might be the result of a victory, it would only irritate men's minds without convincing them; and if we seek to build a substantial edifice, we must found it not upon the ruins of a party, but on the firmer bases of a reconciliation and the patriotism of all.
Affair with the French Fleet.—A supplement to the British Packet contains the correspondence between the Argentine Government and Viscount Vinancourt, Commander of the French squadron in the neighborhood of Buenos Ayres, occasioned by the French Commander having, on the night of May 21, forcibly taken possession of the B. A. squadron in the roads, consisting of the brigs General Rondeau and Cacique, the schrs. Rio Bamba and "11th June,"—and having at the same time burned the schooner-brig Argentina. On the 26th of May, it was agreed that the vessels should be restored, on the following conditions:
1. That Viscount Vinancourt shall deliver up the captured vessels, and place them at the disposal of the Government of Buenos Ayres, with all their appertences, arms, and crew.
2. That the Government shall not oblige by force, any Frenchman resident in this capital to do military duty leaving those who are now enrolled in the companies of militia at full liberty to continue in or leave the service.
3. That the insult which the Viscount supposes to have been offered to the French flag, and the indemnities which he thinks to be due to the Frenchmen injured by the measures of Government, shall be points to be settled between the two Governments.

The necessary decree was immediately issued by the Government; upon which the French commander insisted that another decree should be published, protecting Frenchmen who should withdraw from service from any "underhand measures" for their injury, and also that the newspapers should be prevented from speaking disrespectfully of the subjects of H. M. C. M. To this the Government replied that the first matter was in accordance with their intentions, and issued a further decree accordingly. But as to the second, they say, "according to the laws which regulate the press in this county, the government has little or no influence over the presses which are not official." This second difficulty seemed to be arranged, and an officer was sent to receive the vessels; but unluckily the Commodore happened to have seen a bulletin which had been issued the day after the capture of the vessels, and which he thought contained "a gross attack upon the honor of the French flag." This bulletin he demanded, as a further preliminary, should be rescinded, with a declaration that the accusations were unjust. To this it was replied, "that the said bulletin having been issued at a moment when hostilities existed de facto, the government cannot in any way annul the contents of it." It was finally agreed that the offensive bulletin should be "forgotten and considered as if it had never been,"—that, "to avoid false interpretations," the correspondence should be published without comment. These things being done, the Commodore promised on the 29th, for the third time, that "48 hours, or longer," after receiving the ratifications, he would give up the captured vessels. They were delivered up accordingly.
BUENOS AYRES, June 9.
The schooner of war "11th June" has returned from the Ensenada, after having sustained a battle with a land battery, in which she received considerable injury, and lost two men killed and one wounded.
The enemy have deprived the San Martin of all its cargo, except about 20 pipes of liquors.
New expedition to Santa Fe.—It appears that Gen. Lavalle was endeavouring to cause a diversion from the Buenos Ayres capital by carrying the war into the enemy's territory. The British Packet of May 23d, says—
The expedition to Santa Fe under the command of Col. Isaac Thompson, has sailed. The periodicals of Buenos Ayres rate the force of 600 men of all arms. It may be probably 400 effective men, a number quite sufficient for the purposes intended, if the inhabitants of the provinces of Santa Fe remain neutral, which the government doubtless has reason to expect will be case, else from the nature of the country it will have to encounter many difficulties; at any rate it will be the touchstone of their attachment to Governor Lopez and the system he upholds, and must have a powerful effect upon the war.
The present war, is wound "too tender" for tenderness to touch, afflicting to every patriotic mind.—Few will however withhold the meed of praise for the despatch, secrecy, and tact, evinced in the management of the late expedition sent from hence.
La Gaceta Mercantil of June 9th says "On Sunday a reinforcement of about one hundred men took their departure to join the expedition against Santa Fe."

NARROW ESCAPE.—A little girl of Mr. John Brown, near Hébron. (Ohio) recently fell into a well 47 feet deep, with about 7 feet of water; this accident being discovered by Mr. Brown, he instantly descended and brought her up unhurt, except some slight bruises about her head.
