BUILT FIRST AMERICAN SHIP

Mammoth Launching of Virginia 400 Years Ago

The first ship ever built in the United States was launched at Jamestown Island in 1607. The Virginia was a small vessel 24 feet long and 26 inches wide at the keel, and she was intended for use as a small trading and fishing boat. The Virginia was built by the Jamestown colonists and launched on May 31, 1607, and she was used for nearly 200 years until 1807. The Virginia is now preserved as a monument in Jamestown, Virginia. She was the first ship ever built in the United States and she was an important part of the early history of the country.

CHILD SWALLOWS TEDDY BEAR
Pet is found in Kittery, Maine

Old Margaret Mangusson, a 30-year-old woman, was working in her kitchen when she noticed a small, unusual object on the floor. As she picked it up, she saw a tiny teddy bear. She immediately realized that the teddy bear had been swallowed by her 6-year-old son, who had been playing with it earlier in the day. The mother immediately took her son to a hospital, where he underwent medical examination. The doctors confirmed that the teddy bear had been swallowed, and they advised the mother to keep an eye on her son's health. The mother was relieved to hear that her son was okay and she was grateful for the hospital's prompt response. She also expressed her gratitude to the local community for their support and care.
