SHEILA'S "BAD" BOYS

SAVING "BAD" BOYS

NOVEL INSTITUTION THAT IS DOING GOOD WORK.

"Wass's Hill" the home of a Chicago Ludlow financier, was the scene of a peculiar and novel institution yesterday. It is a home for "bad" boys but it is doing a good work.

The institution is called the "Wass's Hill Boys Colony." It is run by Mr. and Mrs. Wass, a Chicago financier who has been a boy himself and who believes that "bad" boys need a change of scene and a chance to start over.

The colony is located on a hillside overlooking the city and is surrounded by fields and woods.

The boys who come to the colony are given a chance to start over and to learn a trade. They are taught how to live a useful life.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The boys who come to the colony are given a chance to start over and to learn a trade. They are taught how to live a useful life.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.

The colony is run on the lines of a boarding school and the boys are given a chance to develop their talents.