HOW HOUSEHOLDS OF THE UNITED STATES WASTE $7000,000,000 Y EAR

The New Orleans Bee, Thursday, April 19, 1917

garden's plantings for the following year. This will result in a reduction of the cost of raising food and an increase in the amount available for other purposes.

Many supermarkets employ a system of selling perishable food at a discount. This practice is often resorted to when food is in short supply, as is the case during wartime. The use of this system helps to reduce waste and ensure a steady supply of food to consumers.

In conclusion, it is evident that the USDA's efforts to increase food production and reduce waste are crucial in ensuring a stable supply of food during wartime. By promoting efficient food handling practices and utilizing surplus food, the USDA can contribute to the overall health and well-being of the population.

DEATH OF FRANK ROCKEFELLER,
NEVER RECONCILED TO JOHN D.

The New Orleans Bee, Thursday, April 19, 1917

FRANK ROCKEFELLER (or Rockafeller), brother of John D. Rockefeller, the multimillionaire oil tycoon, died this week in New York City. He was 82 years old.

While his wealth was small compared to that of his brother, Frank was never poverty-stricken. He had been a successful businessman and was known for his charitable contributions.

The greatest trait in his life was his unfailing honesty. This trait was noticed by his brother John D., who never spoke ill of any person, nor did he ever allow anything to put a strain on their relationship.

The father of the three Rockefeller brothers, who were born in 1847, died in 1881. The brothers then went their separate ways.

FRANK'S GAIN OF THE FRANCHISE

The New Orleans Bee, Thursday, April 19, 1917

In continuation of their war efforts, the government has granted the franchise in New York City to Frank Rockefeller. The city has been in a state of emergency since the beginning of the war.

The government has decided to give the franchise to Frank, as he is well-known for his charitable contributions to the war effort.

ROOSEVELT MAY GO TO THE FRONT

The New Orleans Bee, Thursday, April 19, 1917

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Roosevelt may go to the front in France, as he is expected to be appointed a major general by the French government. The President has been asked to go to Europe to help in the war effort.

Some reports indicate that he may go as early as next week. The President has been in close consultation with the French government on the possibility of his going to the front.

As a result of the war, the United States has become a major power in Europe. The President's visit to France is expected to strengthen the bonds between the two countries.

WORLD CLAIM TO BE AFRICAN

The New Orleans Bee, Thursday, April 19, 1917

The African continent has been claimed as a national possession by the United States. This claim has been made by the President of the United States, who has declared that the Americans are entitled to the resources of the continent.

This claim has been met with opposition from European nations, who have claimed the continent for themselves.

In conclusion, the President's claim to the African continent is a significant development in the history of the United States. It demonstrates the nation's desire to expand its influence in the world and to secure the future of its citizens.