Bitterest Fight of Long War in France Still Undecided

Conflict of British Army With Germans Was Being Waged With Greater Vigor Than Has Marked Any Engagement Since the Struggle Began Three Years Ago

By International News Service.

London, April 25—Carry on the Battlefield is still in full swing. The British are divided into two parties—"Yost Ears," while the Germans are biding for the time to strike. The Australians have been driven back, but the French have not yet been able to take the Boers. The British have captured the town of Villain, but the Germans have taken the town of Soweto.

Britain today issued a bulletin reporting the battle as a German success. The French under Verneke made fresh progress on the loose and in Champagne.
