A POLITE INVITATION.

As it is desired that editors throughout the State should give publicity to the annexed card, we are perfectly willing to extend its circulation through the medium of our columns. Here it is:

And whoever so desires can hand it to the next editor he may meet:

Tax undersigned, who have observed with pain the fact that sentiments the peculiar characteristic of State Rights and not Senator Douglas is supposed to be the favorite of the choice of Democrats, they are charged with the design of making political capital for the dubious aim of Union Statesmanship, by employing Whig and Anti-Union votes to control the Democratic opponents at the primary meetings. Hence the present encounters the undersigned and many reliable hostility of our contemporary of the Courier that journal being the organ of what may be called the conservative wing of the Democracy, and as such, being antagonistical to Douglas and his principles. That we do not misapprehend the position of the Courier is pretty evident to all who will read the annexed concluding passage from a very pungent article on the subject in yesterday's edition:

The whole thing is simply a plot against the harmony and prosperity of the Democracy of Louisiana, and if successful, its first effect will be to secure the dishonor and disgrace of its metropolis of the southwest, by having her represented in the Charleston and perhaps at Baltimore, by a set of delegates who confess suspicion throughout the entire State by professing to be Democrats, but at the same time, by their every act, showing more than disappointment regarding the success of the Democratic party, after having sneaked into it, however bitterly they might lament their folly and apostacy. The Opposition would do well, therefore, to watch and wait. It will be time enough some months hence to decide upon the course most expedient for them to pursue.

HOW BLACK REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN ARE ELECTED.—The Bangor Union learns that Elder Beck is making a clean breast of his recent treasury defalcation, and, so far from implicating "Democrats high in office" in the transaction, he has made developments that go to the very heart of the Black Republican party. The Union is informed that Beck has made a statement that he expended thirteen thousand dollars to elect Daniel E. Somes, in the First Congressional District; eighteen thousand dollars to elect Ezra B. French in the Third District; and four thousand dollars to elect Stephen C. Foster, in the Sixth District; and eleven thousand more to one of the most prominent Republican leaders in Maine.
