Quarantine after Foul of Columbus

Longmen, Kan.—Quarantine was ordered for the town here yesterday after the arrival of a ship from the east coast of South America. The ship had been under quarantine at New York, and it was said that a case of yellow fever had been discovered on board.

The quarantine will continue until the health authorities have ascertained the condition of the crew. The ship was the "SS. America," and it had been under quarantine at New York for three weeks.

PUMPFINS WERE AVAILABLE
There were a few of these on the Quaker and the Quaker, the two ships that arrived yesterday. They were of the usual pumpkin variety, and they were about as large as a man's hand.

WHY DR. HOMESTEAD DECIDED
Ridiculous Admiration for the Coincidence

The doctors at the hospital here were much perplexed yesterday when a patient said that he had admired a coin that he had found on the street.

Dr. Homestead, the chief surgeon, was called to the sickroom, and after examining the patient, he said that there was no reason to believe that the coin had caused the patient's illness.

WHY THE STORM FAILED
For Some Reason, Still Straitened Finances

The weather here yesterday was very bad, and it was said that the storm was due to some fault in the weather bureau.

The storm was predicted to last a week, but it cleared up quickly, and the weather bureau was blamed for the failure of the storm.

BANKS CANNOT BE INCREASED
Attorney-General of Long Island

The attorney-general of Long Island said yesterday that the banks in that county could not be increased.

"The banks are already too numerous," he said. "We have enough banks to take care of all the business."
