this general statement must not be too implicitly received. There was a time when,
to place capital in American securities was deemed equivalent to reaping a certain and handsome advantage. When the faith of States was as inviciable as that of the Fedcaral Government, Europeans did not hesttate freely to invest their money in bonds,

But Mississippi, lilinois and Pennyivania contrived to throw a vast quantity of cold water on the period of the cold rities. Nor have the prodigious railroad losses of 1857 tended to reassure them! Hence we should imagine that the foreign leaces of 1857 tended to reassure them! I Hence we should imagine that the foreign capitalist will prefer placing his money where he can watch it, even at a low rate of interest, rather than yield to the glittering temptation presented in America. It is our decided opinion that the effect of the war in Europe will not be to transfer any considerable amount of capital to this side.

On the other hand the war has hardly begun, and already we perceive a steady drain of specie from the Northern ports to Europe. On the 26th ult, the Persis took out $3,000. On the 26th ult, the 26t
