How We Design Great Service Experiences?

Analyzing

Apart from the consulting services we provide, each and every clients of Tenth Power will be supported by our purchase specialists throughout the course of business. Their market acumen and knowledge about the products will add value while assessing and identifying customer expectations and requirements at the initial phase. After analyzing the requirements, the quotation is submitted considering the type of products, cost as per the current market value and quantity.

Sourcing

Once the customer confirms on the quotation, a contract is drawn upon mutual agreement. On signing the deal, our team source and procure the products from our vendors, making sure it complies with the safety and quality regulations.

While drawing the contract, the customer has the option to decide if the products are to be delivered in a single allotment or separately.

Distribution

On procuring the products the invoices are prepared and the customer is notified to make the payment. Meanwhile the purchase specialist ensures that the products are delivered as instructed by the customer.

On delivery the customers are requested to have completed the payment process.
