NARD MARIGNY as a Candidate for the Hous of Representatives, totall the vacancy occasioned by the raignation of Mr. C. C. C. IBORNE.

On the solitary road, leading from Passage Mobile, about seven miles from the city, on a tle eminence, a noble structure, towering over loftiest teees, attracts the attention of the tracker, and relieves the eye, tired with the monoton surrounding scenery. This building, fronted by a bold and massive colonade of the Tuscan order, is the Spring Hill College, recently established New Orleans: 2d do. P. Chimnies on Fire .- The prefect of police of Paris has directed that a quantity of flour of sulphur should be continually kept at the watch house o the firemen in that metropolis, and at the places of residence of the Police Officers. Flour of sulphur, as has been demonstrated in theory and as experience has shewn, will effectually put out a fire in the chimney. It is only recessary to burn a small quantity on the hearth of the fire place, the chimney o which is on fire. The sulphur combining with the oxigen of the sir, fills the chimney with sulphurie acid gas, where the sum of immediately the combustion of carbon, the basis of soot. "We are gratified to Bean that, in consequence of the weather, and the scarcity of fuel at the present time in this city, extensive arrangements have been made by the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company to transport fire wood on the road; and that, until the supply is more abundant, a preference will be given to that article over every other. Female Fascination .- The following is the concluding paragraph of an article on the "Great Snakes" Anaconda and Boa, (now in Boston, but exhibited a few days since at Northampton,) that appeared in the Northampton Courier.

But the woman—ah! there is no charmer like woman! we have read in Holy Writ, the seed of the woman should brdise the serpent's head, but we have never heard, or conceived of her washing the like the servent and the servent washingtoness. we have never neard, or conceived of ner washing their mouths or wiping them out with a napkin!—
The keeper's wife, with a dish of water, opened the cage door, and taking successively the head of each snake in her hand, thrust it into the water, afterwards compiler their mouths and winning them. snake in her hand, thrust it into the water, afterwards opening their mouths and wiping them dry from the liquid; during this time, she continued a strain of soothing interrogatories, to which their snakeships made no other rejoinder than the thrusting out of their fangs, and their eyes flashing unutterable vengeance. Then again, the process by which they were enclosed in a trunk for the night; imagine, reader, a pleasant smiling female, embracing a most hideous great snake, as large as the hose of an engine, with her arms, he all the while dart. cing a most hideous great snake, as large as the hose of an engine, with her arms, he all the while darting out his barbed tongue, and twining and twisting his large folds about her neck and shoulders, and yet no harm resulting, thus practically taking a serpent to one's bosom! Surely, if the sex can charm a Boa Constrictor, it is no matter of surprise that we susceptible mortals fall victims to her fascination.
