POTATOES THAT WILL KEEP

THE NEW REGIME IN RUSSIA

What the Washington State Nursery
Threatens for the Future.

By H. H. ALLEN.

Peter S. Sayre, of the State Universities of the University of California, U. S. A., and the University of Wisconsin, U. S. A., has obtained a new variety of potato that will keep for weeks without decay.

The new variety of potato is known as "Sayre's Chinook." It is a white, floury potato, with a yield of 200 bushels per acre, and is reported to be the most productive variety of potato in the world. The plant is resistant to blight and is particularly well adapted to the climate of the Pacific Northwest.

The seeds of this new variety of potato are now being distributed throughout the state, and it is expected that the new variety will become widely grown in California and other states.
