Introduction

- CoSyne: Multilingual Content Synchronization with Wikis

- Research & Development Project, Co-Funded by the European Union under the 7th Framework Programme (FP7- ICT)

- March 2010 – February 2013

A. Bronner

Consortium

- 4 Research Institutions

 University of Amsterdam (UvA)

 Fondazione Bruno Kessler (FBK)

 Dublin City University (DCU)

 Heidelberg Institute for Theoretical Studies (HITS)

- 3 End User Partners

Objective

The CoSyne project will develop a system for synchronizing wiki pages in multiple languages and for maintaining consistency while pages are edited in the different languages.

Motivation

- Why do we want to synchronize wiki pages?

    - Keep content consistent across languages

    - Learn about content in other languages

    - Expand to new languages

Soccer Example

- 28 May 2011, 19:45

- Wembley stadium, London

- Barcelona vs. Manchester United

- Barcelona wins (3:1)

- Goalkeeper Edwin van der Sar, at the age of 40, plays his last game for Manchester United and retires from football

Its name is derived from Amstelredamme,[9] indicative of the city's origin: a dam in the river Amstel. Settled as a small fishing village in the late 12th century, Amsterdam became one of the most important ports in the world during the Dutch Golden Age, a result of its innovative developments in trade. During that time, the city was the leading center for finance and diamonds.[10] In the 19th and 20th centuries, the city expanded, and many new neighbourhoods and suburbs were formed. The 17th-century canals of Amsterdam (in Dutch: 'Grachtengordel'), located in the heart of Amsterdam, were added to the UNESCO World Heritage List in July 2010.

Synchronization Process

User Edits Classification

- Decides whether the meaning has changed:
  - Factual change → Synchronize
  - Fluency change → Improve (self learning)

A. Bronner
University of Amsterdam / Netherlands Institute for Sound & Vision
Wikimania 2011, Haifa Israel
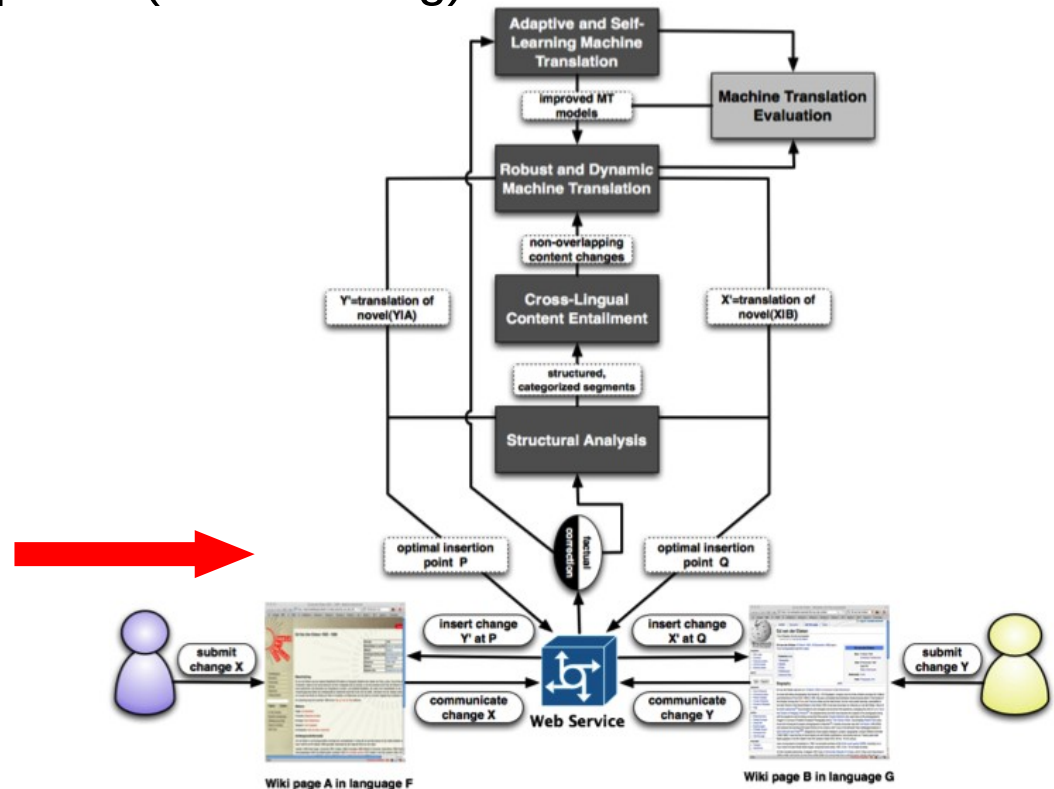

Structural Analysis

- Decides which segments to compare
- Instructs how to reconstruct the wikitext
- Decides where to insert the modifications

Wikimania 2011, Haifa Israel
Cross-lingual Content Entailment

- Determines whether text segments are equivalent
  - Equivalent → No change
  - More specific → Replace
  - Unrelated → Add
  - Contradiction → Ask the user
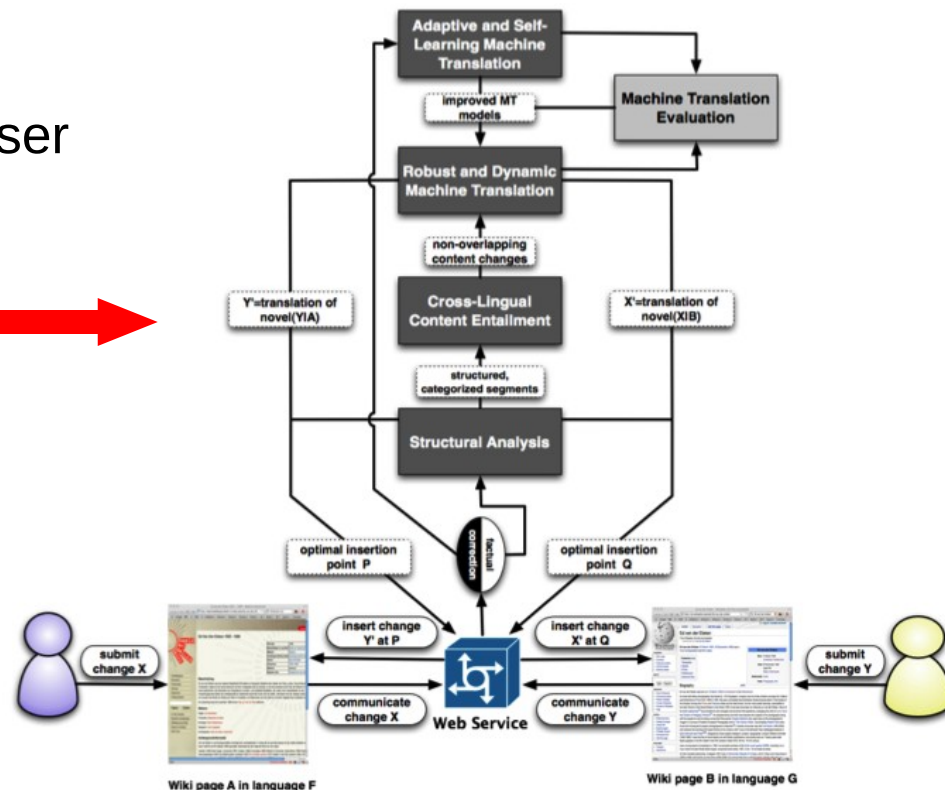

Machine Translation

- Translates segments that need to be added or replaced
- Collects "fluency" corrections and learns improved models
