

TOC

INDEX

VIEW

S47 First Aid for Broken Databases

Rod Murchison

This session enables you to recognize when your database is broken and how badly it is broken. It discusses the recovery and repair facilities available to you and explains when and how each should be used. It also outlines the documentation that you should provide when reporting the problem to IBM. After attending this session you will be equipped to take the appropriate action for any situation involving a broken database.

