Elixir Technology
Elixir Repertoire

IBM

Solution Description

Business intelligence encompasses a broad range of functionality, from back-end processing to front-end presentation. The Elixir Repertoire solution provides a fully integrated suite of business intelligence modules that address the end-to-end information lifecycle. Elixir Repertoire offers a wide array of functionalities for maximum business impact, while leveraging Java Standard & Enterprise Edition for cross-platform compatibility.

Features & Benefits

The Elixir Repertoire modules can be enabled separately, and consist of four major components:

Dashboard: an intuitive dashboard design with interlinking views for content presentation. Provides interactive navigation of content mash-ups including: map, table, cube, chart, image and report. Power users can dynamically customize the views and contents to adapt to changing business requirements.

Report: provides timely and accurate visibility into business performance. Designed for power and ease of use, this module meets enterprise wide reporting requirements for hardcopy or softcopy production as well as Web and mobile delivery.

Data ETL: a powerful yet flexible data access solution to extract, aggregate, transform and load across multiple disparate data sources. With data increasing in volume and diversity, the data access bottleneck can be eliminated with a powerful yet easy-to-use data management facility.

Scheduler (supports Report and Dashboard): the integrated scheduler automates the background processing tasks based on time, data and logic, including invoking external programs. Enterprise integration is supported via message queue to receive external event trigger to achieve real-time activation for operational monitoring and alerting needs.

Value Proposition

Elixir Repertoire takes business intelligence to an unmatched level of open interoperability by fully embracing service-oriented architecture (SOA), making business intelligence capabilities available as Web services. The solution is designed to further empower businesses toward becoming intelligent enterprises, where critical information is readily available to drive decisions and actions.
