Business Spaces

Espaces de travail composites, sécurisés, basés sur des rôles, donnant à l'utilisateur un accès transparent aux composants de l'infrastructure BPM

... basés sur des standards Web 2.0 (Widgets) et lui permettant d'interagir avec le processus, depuis de multiples canaux et environnements

A quoi ça ressemble ?

The screenshot shows the IBM Business Space interface. On the left, there are two panels: "My Tasks" and "Tasks I Created". Both panels list several tasks, such as "Approval", "Task", and "Query", with details like start and end dates, status, and descriptions. In the center, there is a "Workflow Diagram" window showing a process flow with four green rounded rectangles connected by arrows, followed by a decision diamond labeled "Decision Point". A yellow rounded rectangle labeled "Decision Point" is also present. Below the workflow diagram is a "Human Workflow Diagram" window showing a similar process flow with four green rounded rectangles and a decision diamond.

IBM BPM BlueWorks

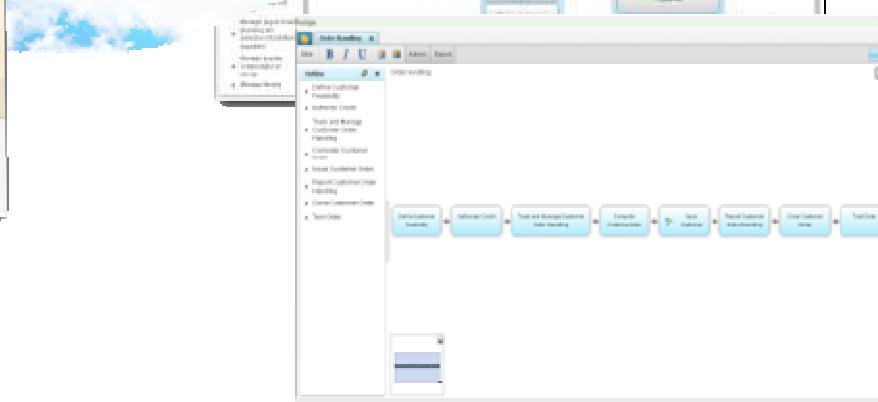

The screenshot shows the IBM BPM BlueWorks homepage. At the top, there's a banner with the text "Create, share and collaborate". Below it, the main navigation bar includes "Overview", "Learn", "Experience", "Collaborate", and "My IBM BlueWorks". The "Learn" tab is selected. The page features a "BLOG" section with various posts like "General best-practice concepts", "The future - Managed Grids", and "Velocity Business Manager". A "COMMUNITY" section shows recent activity from users like "IBM Bluemix Business Modeler" and "New Web-based GUI". There are also sections for "Quick Links to IBM BlueWorks Assets" (Presentations, Capabilities, Strategy Maps, Business Measures, Customized Charts, Reports/Case Studies) and "Feeds" (e.g., "CEOs take face mounting pressure to innovate"). At the bottom, there are links to "About", "Brochures", and a "Webcast" titled "Building a Dynamic Office using IBM Collaboration".
