Solution Description

The IBM ECM Sidebar for Notes uses IBM Content Navigator to fully integrate the ECM repositories as a Sidebar to IBM Notes.

The users can browse and search in their ECM repositories using the same interactions as they already know from the IBM Content Navigator web application. They can also seamlessly work with the favorites they have defined on their IBM Content Navigator desktop.

The users can add or move emails to the ECM repositories using simple drag and drop operations. Furthermore they can copy attachments to the ECM repositories. With this features the users are able to both reduce the size of their Notes databases and can easily share relevant informations with multiple people.

To support collaboration the users can simply send a link to any ECM document or even to a complete ECM folder by email. The recipients can open these linked items in the IBM Content Navigator application.

For recipients that do not have access to IBM Content Navigator the users can simply send a copy of the ECM document by email. This option can be disabled by central configuration.

Technical Information

The IBM ECM Sidebar for Notes is implemented as a plug-in for the Eclipse based Notes Client, thus it requires the IBM Notes Rich Client on the user desktops.
