IBM WebSphere Education Application Integration Curriculum
Connect people, processes and systems with training from WebSphere Education

- Comprehensive curriculum with over 30 courses from WebSphere ESB and WebSphere DataPower to WebSphere MQ

- Flexible learning options that include classroom, instructor-led online and self-paced virtual courses

As the world gets smarter, people, man-made and natural systems become interconnected. We have an opportunity to think and act in new ways— economically, socially and technically. At a business level, IBM calls this Smart Work. Implemented across your company, it will revolutionize the way people, organizations, and technologies work with each other and interact.

Connecting people and systems inside and outside the organization
Application integration and connectivity is core to working smarter and fundamental to a Smart SOA approach that enables information to flow freely within and across processes, business partners and clients.

The WebSphere Education Application Integration curriculum will enable you with the skills to unlock the business value of the WebSphere application integration portfolio to:

- Establish any-to-any connections with WebSphere MQ, Message Broker, ESB and DataPower SOA Appliances
- Leverage business data, applications, and services as a shared resource through WebSphere Service Registry and Repository and WebSphere File Transfer Edition
- Extend the value chain to your customers and partners with WebSphere Partner Gateway and Transformation Extender

To meet the broad skill requirements for developing an application integration infrastructure underlying Smart Work, the WebSphere Application Integration curriculum provides courses spanning introductory to advanced topics across key roles, including system administrator and application developer. Further adding flexibility to our curriculum are various course delivery choices that meet your budget, project timelines and and location of your team. You can choose from traditional classroom training, instructor-led online delivered real-time by a live instructor or self-paced virtual classes that you work on at your own pace. No matter which delivery method you choose, practical skills are reinforced through hands-on labs where you use full function versions of the software you are studying.
