Comtech Overview

Comtech is an IBM® Premier Business Partner delivering integrated IT Solutions including computer hardware, software, and communication systems. We provide a wide range of options, allowing us to customize and implement the proper technology to meet your requirements as well as your budget. Comtech received a "Leader for Linux" designation from IBM.

Comtech is a full-service company that employs in-house technicians committed to designing and implementing the technologies that best meet your needs. Both small and large businesses need to leverage their current IT investments as well as plan for future growth. Our staff will ensure that the job gets done right and on time. This used to be called a "can do" attitude. At Comtech, it still is.

Our Technical Services team is here to support and enhance your organization. Our staff has extremely varied skills, learned through many years of experience.

- Comtech Consultants and Technicians average over 11 years in IT.
- Our team carries over 50 different certifications from technology firms including IBM Software/Hardware, Microsoft, Cisco, Novell and others.
- Our team is continuously training and receiving certifications on the latest technologies.

Network Solutions: Connecting your business

Comtech delivers critical business connectivity solutions that are the communication lifeline of your business operations. Our experience with LANs and WANs enable us to design and implement state-of-the-art architectures.

Comtech has partnerships with leading technology developers and manufacturers, and our engineers maintain expert certifications, which means we're qualified to provide you with a dependable network solution.

Midrange Services: Making it all work

Comtech's technical experts ensure that your system is up and running properly. We combine best practices and best-of-breed products with On-Demand Strategy to exceed your expectations. Your complete satisfaction is Comtech's main goal. Our technical team makes it all work.

e-Solutions: Extend your enterprise

Comtech offers several e-services and applications, from managing and securing payments to providing strategic databases with mining abilities.
