Six South Vietnamese Parliamentarians

Truong Quoc Buu, South Vietnamese Labor Leader

Amb. Tran Kim Phuong, South Vietnamese

Ambassador to the U.S.

President Ford

Lt. General Brent Scowcroft, Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

DATE AND TIME:

Tuesday, March 25, 1975

11:00 a.m.

PLACE:

The Oval Office

The White House

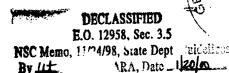

[The press was admitted briefly for photographs.]

President: I am very pleased, Mr. Buu, to have the opportunity to greet you and your associates from Vietnam.

Phuong: We are very honored that you have been willing to meet with the Parliamentary delegation and Mr. Buu. I informed President Thieu last night of your kindness. He asked me to tell you he appreciated your kindness and your letter. He will write very shortly to explain the situation. He expresses his deep appreciation. He is aware of your efforts with the Congress. Your kindness and understanding he appreciates and anything you can do with the Congress.

We have had to withdraw from the Highlands in the face of massive illegal attack from the north. Last night we also had to withdraw from Hue. The road from the south is cut off so resupply by land and air is impossible. There are three divisions attacking. The President says we will make a stand in Danang.

CONEIDENTIAL

[He gets out a map.] The President asked me to tell you what we will do now. We will regroup in Danang as an enclave because two provinces south already are overrun -- Quang Tin and Quang Ngai. We will defend the coastal provinces [names them] and the two Highland provinces. We will hold this line [he indicates] and MRs 3 and 4. During the last two weeks there is the feeling we have drawn back but this area was indefensible. We could get three or four divisions chewed up or immobilized at Hue. We can resupply Danang by ship but not Hue; it has no harbor, and there are shifting sands.

President: Mr. Ambassador, Mr. Buu, Members of Parliament. I am happy to have you visit here. I spent 25 years in our parliament and I have a great understanding of your problems. I am disturbed as are the American people that Hanoi has so flagrantly violated the Paris accords. Please tell President Thieu that I am pleased to hear his plans for military defense. It is important that it be successful. Tell President Thieu that I will do everything I can to get the aid that South Vietnam needs.

I hope you all had a chance to discuss these problems with members of Congress. I think there is a better spirit there now. I hope the Congress will respond, and my Administration will do its best.

The news is bad, but if your government carries out this redeployment, I wish you well.

I am sending General Weyand, our Chief of Staff, to Saigon tomorrow to make an assessment and report to me. He is a friend of Vietnam and has been directed to tell me what we can do to help.

Mr. Buu: I am very happy to be here. I thank you, Mr. President, for your words of support. We send you the greetings of labor. We don't agree with President Thieu on everything but we certainly do on fighting the Communists. We have been affiliated with the CIO for 20 years. Always before we could count on the U.S. But now, the statements being made are more damaging than the bombs of the North. These comments have encouraged the Communists to attack. The North Vietnamese are being supported by the Chinese and the Soviet Union. If the U.S. doesn't help us, who will? Millions of Vietnamese people's attention is focussed on the U.S. to see what you will do.

President: The AFL/CIO under George Meany has always supported.

American actions in Vietnam. Some in labor haven't, but George Weany and his associates have supported strength in Vietnam and elsewhere. They know that labor has no voice under Communist regimes and that in a democracy, labor does have a union. George Meany and I don't always agree -- like you and Thieu -- but we agree that we must support people who want to be free if they are willing to fight. The GVN is fighting and standing strong and I will do everything possible to be helpful.

Buu: Whatever you can do, do it quickly.

President: We will expedite military and economic assistance and we will try to get the Congress to make additional funds available.

What was the reaction from the Congressmen you spoke to?

Minh: On behalf of the delegation, I want to express my thanks and express the feeling of the Vietnamese people. We thank you for your help and understanding. We want peace but we must resist aggression. We can't exercise self-determination without help. We have to thank you for your help in our fight for survival and freedom. We have confidence in the U.S. as the leader of the free world. We have met about 50 Congressmen. Some are in agreement with us, some of the freshmen. Before, they were reluctant but I think now it is better, since we are here and your delegation went there.

President: I appreciate your help on the Hill. We will continue to work for action.

Diep: It is a great honor to be here. Everybody is aware now that more than one and a half million of our people are fleeing. I am speaking for the people of North Vietnam and Hue. In 1968 half of my family was killed in Hue, and now the other half are forced to flee.

Phuong: Over half of this delegation is from Hue. Since we will fight at Danang, there is the problem of rescuing the refugees from Hue and eventually out of Danang so we can fight. We can only move forty thousand a month. [He shows on the map.] We feel strongly about Hue, but we can't sacrifice two divisions at Hue.

President: Danang has a good harbor?

Phuong: Yes.

CONEXDENTIAL

President: Are these lines easily defensible?

Phuong: We have to defend along here. We intend to do it fiercely.

President: Let me just say again how strongly I support the government and the Vietnamese people. This is an important area that the world knows is a fight for freedom. We must continue to help, and to the extent I can continue to do so, I will. Keep up the good fight, and please give to President Thieu and the other leaders my best wishes for strength and freedom in the years ahead.

III. TALKING POINTS

- 1. It is a pleasure to receive you today. As a former Congressman, I am always delighted to meet fellow parliamentarians. Mr. Buu, it is also an honor to meet you. I understand you have had useful discussions with the leaders of our labor organizations.
- 2. I am deeply disturbed by the reports of new fighting in South Vietnam. I would like you to carry back to President Thieu and to the Vietnamese people, my personal message of respect and high admiration for the courage and determination they are showing in their gallant defense against Hanoi's latest offensive.
- 3. As you know, I have already requested supplementary assistance for South Vietnam from the Congress. I will continue to push hard to gain approval for these critically needed funds.
- 4. The United States condemns the blatant attacks carried out by the North Vietnamese, and we will continue our efforts to make clear internationally their flagrant violations of the Paris accords.
- 5. I know that the recent losses suffered by your forces have caused morale to suffer. That is why it is so important that you convey the message that I am making a maximum effort to obtain the assistance which your countrymen so desperately need. I will not abandon them.
- 6. While you are here in the United States, I hope you will visit as many different cities and areas of the country as possible. It is very important that you convey the message to the American people that your people are determined to remain free.
- 7. I am sending General Weyand to South Vietnam to assess the situation and make recommendations to me on what actions the United States might take to be of assistance. This mission will give me a better idea of what actions are required.

  I will look forward to receiving his report.
