The ship Woodbury, which sailed from Havre on the 10th Fcb. arrived last night, and braught papers to the 6th; but we were bnable to procure a sight of them, as they were taken to the post office at the time it was about to close. The Natchez and Olymyia were to sail for this port the next day, illth February.

We have received, with the request to publish, a furious bank article extracted from the Philadelphia Herald, one or the most violent bank papers in the country. Our motto is, as conductors of a public press, to hear both sides, and if our liberality and independence had been appealed to, we small not have hesitated one moment in giving the piece i place in our columns; but as he who desires to hive it Publ shed attempts to de so surreptitiously, alleging as an inof honor and trust, or to tempt. A very foolish attempt was made yesterday by a morain intemporary, to in face suspicions as to bad faith on the part of trose who had declared that they should make no oppotion to Mr. Prieur's election. We were happy to see that he story was universally discredifed, and looked upon as an as thee to affect another contest. These things are pitiful and espacable in the extreme, and show how perverted some nem s judgments must be to resort to them.

It is a remarkable fact that the city of Charleston has not extrong gale from the North West, but owing to the extraordinary enced the pressure in the money-market that has been felt in other cities. The local axcitement, that prevails on the subject of the Military Bill and th Test Oath throughout the State of South Carolina, may account for the singular circumstance, as precluding the peoprestion, and preventing the panic-makers from spreading a ir incendiary alarms. To this fact, in connection with the restration of business elsewhere it is not unreasonable to attribute, the present "high and palmy state" of Charleston. One thing is certain, confidence, has not been blighted there by the sinister methods practised in N. Orleans, with [slast] but too much success. FIRE.

About ten o'clock on Saturday morning, a firewas discovered in the four story brick building, No. 2 Thames-at., in the rear of the City Hotel, occupied by Thomas F. Rogers, Cabsunt-maker; Timothy Hoggett, Carpenter, besides several colored families among whom was a Clothes Dresser, whose establishment was totally destroyed. The second floor was o cupied by an infant-school room, which fortunately happened to be closed, it being vacation day: otherwise, the children would inevitably have perished.

The persons occupying the third story, very narrowly cacaped with the aid of ladders. The fire broke out in the cellar of the house, in a carpenter's shop, and the wind blew a Naw-York, March 24.

Tam rejoiced to say that money is considerably more abundant among us here than it has been for at least three months past, and that there is decidedly more prospect than there has been of a permanent relief, and a corresponding restoration (if not of the Deposites) of the spirits of the people. The evil, however artificial and unnecessary in some important particulars, has been, in some others, of such a character as ultimately to work out in a good degree its own ours; and the time for that result to show itself has arrived. If the mercantile community have over-traded, herefore, their recent fast has been duite in proportion to the formet If the mercantile community have over-traded hereibfore, their recent first has been quite in proportion to the former replation which made it necessary. Trade has been stagnant to an extent scarcely believable. Your New York packets, for example, have sailed to and fro with a tenth part or less, repeatedly, of the freight which they carry in ordinary times; and most other departments of business have suffered penance or abevance in like proportion. Appearances are now comparatively encouraging, and this new feeling gives an addition even to the interest with which the news ferm Washington has been awaited heartful. New-York, March 221. Are affective case.—A person of respectable appearance applied at the police office a few days since for the release of his wife from the Penitentiary, where she had been sent by a magistrate about two months before, from representations made to him of her being an habitual drunkard. Her husband had formerly been a respectable manufacturer of mathematical instruments; but about eight years ago he had the misfortune to hecome totally blind, and was compelled to religiously his briginess. He was abliguid to close he concerns ematical instruments; but about eight years ago he had the misfortune to hecome totally blind, and was compelled to relinquish his business. He was obliged to close his concerns at a very great secrifice, and finally the part with every article of value in his possession. His wife, becoming metalecholy at the near prospect of actual want, gradually became addicted to drink; neglected her husband and children, who had no other means of support them are industry, and subsisted upon the aims of a few charitable individuals, who had known the husband when in prisperity. In February last, she was seen in a state of brutal intoxication, and was conveyed on a cart to the Police Office.

He had made frequent application for medical assistance, and every effort was made by his friends for the restoration of his sight, but without producing the desired effect. After the commitment of his wife, he was induced to indergo an operation, by which the cataracts were removed from his oyes in eleven seconds, and in less than a fortnight his eye sight was perfectly restored. His wife promis d reformation so heartily, that he resolved to petition for her release which the presiding magistrate readily granted.—[Standard.
